"Of Truth" was first published in print in 1980. The evolution myth was so well researched that evolutionists have never challenged facts presented, either as the printed editions or later on-line editions; nor have Christian churches used the information to expose ideological deceptions. Such is the strength of Globalist brainwashing and the strength of the chains in mind set by modern indoctrination. However the corruption, as we shall see, goes back much further.

Foreword:

The WORD was ORDER, and the order was of Life.

Given all that has been said about Jesus of Nazareth and all the claims made about the authenticity of the Testaments, there remains much that our Christian religion leaves unanswered. An independent search for truth leaves one not at all surprised by the low level of credibility given Christian affairs by the general public, nor that so many now give faith to the anti-Christian, communist religion, called "Humanism".

Honest search leaves no doubts that there is an intelligent creative force and that only by giving allegiance to truth can humanity develop to maturity and its designed place in the universe. This book will help justify the faith of all those who love truth.

The Word that is the Bible V the Word that is the Creation

Given the deceits of today we should not be shocked to find that many Christians fear to take a step closer to God; but in taking this step the oppressed will rejoice. Confusion must be expected as we approach the end days of this generation and face a forward step to a new enlightenment.

Many now have their intelligence so suppressed by deceits and pride that they are no longer capable of analytical thinking and cannot appreciate the needs of complex order, they therefore adhere to emotional argument in opposition to the evidence that the creation is a work of intelligence.

I put it to you that intelligence is not only basic to creation of order but also that, in fact, our Creator is the sole source of intelligence. If you can accept this, then we are well on our way because it is intelligence that underlies our ability to know truth and justifies the Christian faith.

I also put it to you that the creation was not created as a plaything; our Creator is not a child – nor petty, arrogant or spiteful. I see the human creation as a serious project: do you? Animals, plants and other forms of life are behavior programmed and response stimulated more as your computer than as humanity, or as is your ability to become human.

Most, or all of animal programming seems conveyed through the genetic system; but mankind was given capacity for independent intellectual development. I believe the Creator has a logical plan behind sharing His intellectual capacity with us. Do you?

It appears that our analytical ability (intelligence) required a development program because development is what we have, and are experiencing. A mindless program does not drive us! Accepting this appears to be a great problem for many.

Today most tend to take for granted that we, like common animals, are complete as we are born; that we develop to a set program; solid evidence says otherwise. Don't be misled, without human contact we would not even learn a language. There should be no rational doubt that intellectual development is a human potential; exceptional; ongoing and restricted to humankind.

Scriptures elementary and advanced:

The Creator did not personally write the Christian Bible; it was inspired. This means we have to appreciate that it was inspired to a mankind in process of developing intellect. Each such inspiration was discussed and retold; it was translated, interpreted and finally written down in various languages as accessed by the biased and limited intellect of a mentally developing mankind.

Scripture warned that the developing intellect of man is unreliable; that the wisdom of this world would be refuted!

This is now being demonstrated! There are many translations and religions, but people fight and die for beliefs of their emotional choice while giving little attention to logic and reason.

So when we look for the truth of life or the true word of God we have first (if we look with honest faith) to admit the rational intelligence of the Creator. If we do not have faith in truth then we will look without seeing, think without understanding.

To be true Christians we must look for a scientific level of truth. Jesus said "I am truth" meaning he represented the God who is truth, so if we are open to truth and appreciate the logic of His teachings, then a true scientific level of truth will return us to the original revelation free of human bias. It will also reveal that Christian morals have a real physical substance.

The creation, in all its majesty, was created for a purpose: a logical and intelligent purpose and it is structured from universal truths.

Our two Bibles!

Christians should now see that we have two Bibles – the corruptible Word based on the memories and desires of mankind and the incorruptible Word represented by the Creation itself? Our Christian Bible reminds us of this, but Christian religion now leads with dead dogma.

We were not left to rely on the polluted stream running through the biased mind and culture of mankind; back-up was provided! The true “Word” and the Creation are as one! The Creator is truly reflected in “the things He has made”. We have the true Word of God in the creation and we are told to view the creation through the eye of reason (rational intellect) to know all that may be known of God by man.

We are warned against our enemies, but we ignore these warnings. Our Creator warns and offers guidance, but we are too proud to take notice.

Why do we fall for arrogant deceits and pretend those who deceive us do not despise us? Why is it that we have so little individual faith in our own intelligence or reasoning ability? Is it that we are just too lazy to use our intellectual gift? The following, for our time, is possibly among the most important statements of the Christian Bible:

Romans 1: 18-23: “For we see divine retribution revealed from heaven and falling upon all the godless wickedness of men. For all that may be known of God by men lies plain before their eyes; indeed God himself has disclosed it to them. His invisible attributes, that is to say his everlasting power and deity, has been visible, ever since the world began, to the eye of reason, in the things he has made.

There is therefore no possible defense for their conduct; knowing God, they have refused to honour him as God, or to render him thanks. Hence all their thinking has ended in futility, and their misguided minds are plunged in darkness. They boast of their wisdom, but they have made fools of themselves, exchanging the splendour of immortal God for an image shaped like mortal man, even for images shaped like birds, beasts and creeping things.”

Paul could not have made that up; he would need knowledge more advanced than is evident today: human scientific truth was still far ahead.

Given the evidence we still find it difficult to see the natural consequences of foreknowledge and the compounded complexity of life as shown by science; or even the natural consequences of our behavior or of our prides and prejudices. We complain of car accidents, drugs and crime, unable to see that these as consequences of the philosophy we live by. But Jesus told us, John 14:6 “I am the way; I am the truth and I am life; no one comes to the Father except by me.”

Christian leaders still ignore the challenge of Galileo to face the truth of the creation – they have no faith in truth! But the way to life is through truth and that is basic!

Our culture now degrades our intellectual capacity so that increasing numbers accept simplistic reasoning. Scientists look at a man walking and say, “He progresses one step after another to reach new places, that is evolution by natural selection and see, it can be proven, so that makes it science. They dispute intellectual argument of complexity of movement because they cannot understand it. Pride in their own importance welds many (educated or not) to their mistakes!

So leaders of religions, when challenged by the false science of chance-evolution, cannot expose it. They promote humanist, rather than human, social attitudes. They refuse to face truth and refuse to learn! To maintain their pride they remain ignorant of truth; they turn their flocks from “the splendour of immortal God for an image shaped like mortal man, even for images shaped like birds, beasts and creeping things.”

This is so well confirmed by our worship of man created ‘idols’ of philosophy, and morals based on humanist caricatures of man as beast.

Christianity is not a demanding religion! Truth is Knowledge gained by combination of experience, logic, compassion and courage! The real needs of our times are:

- 1: Logic; to know that truth is the only base for life advance.
- 2: Compassion; to care enough to make sacrifice of false belief.
- 3: Courage to appreciate that the rewards for intellectual discipline are far greater than those for passing pleasures.

Where man-inspired words of the Bible depart from the rational logic of the creation, we should push these humanist interpretations aside to reveal our improved human development and thereby find greater unity with our Creator. We should realize that, had Christianity had faith in the incorruptible Word of Creation and looked to science for understanding of the creation of life, then the deceit of evolution never could have been imposed.

Chance evolution is a theory only developed for support of humanist philosophy. Truth is the reality of the creation! Truth is our God for the 21st century and the Creation itself is our Bible for advanced study.

When the rational intellect of true science is given freedom from pride and prejudice, then all we need know of our Creator will be firmly established. Think about that!

Why did Christianity turn its back on the Word of the Creation? Do we love, too well, our man made image of God? Over the years we have created a god in our own image and it has proved, in light of the intelligence we are given, to be, to growing numbers, an empty image.

Yes: Scriptures do contain the Word of God but these have been expressed, interpreted and shaped by man to man's desire; we can now, with improved intellect and experience, find and accept the true logic of these teachings.

This treatise on TRUTH is not based on religion but on the truth revealed in the Christian Testament. Jesus said "The Truth will set you free". Was there no truth then that would be a lie! But the reality of truth becomes self-evident to humans who are prepared to use the intelligence they were given.

Many readers already know that truth can set them free and easily understand why liars, fools and criminals are so desperate to deny truth.

Let's see ourselves as we are and repent?

What a different world it would be had we not been misled by the pretence and deceits of humanism (the mock human and the fake chance creation ideology) but lessons have to be learned. The Testaments still serve immediate needs. A dose of faith in Truth will help us see what is important and help us put doubtful areas aside. Our creation is based on the order of truth.

We should not allow our emotions to shape our scriptures; if we do not love truth our search for meaning will lead us far astray. The revealed Christian way of life is confirmed by human experience though it seems many professed Christians ignore the advice given and, by promiscuity, destroy and misdirect the formation of the marriage bond and to pass social deformity of their children.

Many make great display of their concern for their children but it is pride in themselves that drives them. They really do not care enough to exercise a little self-discipline either in their own lives or the instruction of their children. The result: family break up; children driven to drugs and crime for want of loving discipline and family security.

Yes, we claim to care, but few care enough to exercise justice and discipline in their family relationships, or to understand that democracy requires election and choice of honest representatives not quislings chosen by sectional interests.

I hope more will see that the meaning of the word "truth", as when Jesus says, "I am truth" is not different from that truth we mean when we say to someone, "That is true". Truth is the science of reality!

Of Truth

Part 1.

Chapter 1.

Preparation for truth

Children are taught that there is no truth because it is easier to fool the innocent!

Others may ask: "If there is no truth then how can what you say be true?"

Anyone who says, in all seriousness, that truth does not exist must have deceit in mind; be brainwashed beyond intelligence; or be mad!

Who knows any such advocate ever demonstrating ability to walk through brick walls or retrieve money from empty pockets? Without truth no intelligent communication would be possible!

How will they answer our challenge? Will they have the courage to try; in over twenty years no one has? Will they say that they are not talking about that kind of truth? How many kinds of truth are there? Why do they not explain the kind of truth they are talking about?

Do they say it is mystical? That is not what logical science; humanists teach that we can make up our own values – live life as we like. Values, morals – these are not mystical; what is more real to living than life and death, happiness or sorrowing, hate or love.

Points I would like to take into this treatise are that humanity is by nature logical and that life is bound by logical boundaries. The way that we live and behave is the result of our most basic beliefs whether false or not.

We will be able to live in harmony with nature, creation, and each other, only when we accept beliefs that are in true understanding of our creation and the nature of our human potential. Many will be surprised to find that, when we advance in truth our freedom is incredibly increased.

In order that civilizations reach higher and higher levels we have to make periodic ‘breakthroughs’; to advance levels of understanding we need experience the advance of logical understanding. It may be related to fire or the wheel; it may be about bronze or iron, the internal combustion engine or radio. What we now need is a better understanding of why truth is a real and essential necessity of life. Truth may not always be material, but it is always based on principles without which no universe could exist.

Truth is important because it is truth in order that allowed us life! Denial of truth destroys physical and cultural order and turns us toward death; when a person begins to search seriously for truth what is sought is not one thing but two – self and truth – to know life, to know our 'self!'

An important mistake of many is to seek truth without first preparing the mind for the task. Discovering the nature of truth is essentially concerned with disciplining the mind so that it can recognize truth.

Preparing for truth:

There are many reasons why people try to avoid seeing what is there. Reasons for our blindness to truth mainly involve a culture that pressures us to accept ideological conventions that deliberately “dumb-down” our thinking ability.

We learn conventions of ideas and thought patterns, not just conventions of grammar but conventions of fashionable thought. For such reasons, fast readers, inattentive readers bound to educated persuasions or strong fixations, are liable to create or accept self-indulgent interpretations.

For serious study: “print out” hard copy. Be warned: communication is no simple matter. The on-line word floats in cyber-space and lacks substance of conviction. It is depends on mechanical creation and is not convenient to carry to a chair in a cool corner, a seat by a fireside or discuss with a friend, in a park! Serious matters need serious thought and instant revision.

It takes the efforts of two to communicate and logical attitudes open to development by discipline and practice. As beings we try, continually, to put incoming information into little – predigested – mental filing cabinets. If we cannot do this then we may have to think, and re-think, and keep rearranging items of incoming information, and that, the uncaring find, is an unthinkable chore.

When looking for social reality the importance of eliminating mental habits of carelessness and sloth cannot be over-emphasized. In unknowing innocence we err habitually. We tend to see what we want to see, and when we cannot see what we want to see then we interpret what we see to mean what we want (or expect) it to mean. In this way we corrupt our beliefs.

No matter where truth is sought our project becomes impossible if we do not first admit the treachery of desire. We need willing sacrifice of our false self for our true self. We can help ourselves out of our self-imprisonment by understanding that it is truth (not emotional sop or animal desire) that is the essential need of successful decision making: add to this a determination not to jump, too soon, to conclusions.

A true desire for truth – wanting to see clearly what is there – is essential for those seeking truth. If we seek to defend our desires, we are lost.

Where does your faith rest?

Whether you believe in chance evolution, humanism or in a theist religion, your faith IS your religion – that is where you place your trust – it is the base for your thinking and life attitude. But we were given an intellectual ability; faith was meant to support intelligence where information is missing.

When our faith is challenged, or we feel it is being challenged, we become defensive – we feel we must be true to – must be loyal to – must be defensive of – our god. As you read you may be led to the greatest challenge of your life but, it may also be your greatest opportunity.

Consider the following: When one is being loyal to a belief just who, or what, is one being loyal to? In your mind your beliefs represent you. Would you want to give loyalty to a thief masquerading in your name?

People feel compelled to be loyal to ‘their’ sports team or political party. Suppose, the teams decided to swap jerseys and after the game you found you had been barracking for the wrong team, would you feel betrayed?

If so, then ask yourself: who are you really being faithful to if you cannot give justice to anything that does not support your faith? Are you being true to your true self or to beliefs created by an enemy? The only real faith – the only faith you can rely on – is faith in truth. Our sincerity in this is revealed by our work.

Those not faithful to truth worship ego or ideas, which, by chance or force, were in the past accepted! Do we deserve credit for that? We cannot develop our lives by following beliefs not true to reality. The true God is truth; we were given intelligence so that we would be able to know truth. If we want to live with truth we must always want to know truth better.

Seek reality, not flattery.

The first law of truth is: be truthful. As our subject relates to self and society it should come as no surprise that present attitudes are shameful. But our world does not owe anyone a living and our only inalienable right is the right to honestly try, or, if we let it come to that, to struggle.

We cannot find truth through effort to please friends! Influencing people should be incidental. Knowledge is free of obligation and gives justice to those who honestly seek it; the work of true humanity is to advance truth!

If you want to live in the true life – find your true self. If you want to live in human community – find your true self and help others to do the same.

How can you find your true self? To start – be truthful.

You cannot find your true self unless you are true to yourself. If you are honest with yourself you will be honest with others because it becomes difficult, if you are genuinely truthful with yourself, to be untruthful with others. The true “self “ is part of the universal self.

Self and Society.

A disaster of our times is the fragmentation, emotionally, culturally and intellectually, of the human world. Our worst delusions come from the teachings of humanist ideology. Dramatic advance of crime, cruelty and corruption at all levels of culture can be seen to relate directly to teachings that promote the animal behavior of our animal bodies over direction by our human intellectual needs.

As it will become apparent, to become human is a desired-to-learn truth of life. We are not born with a human nature we are born with a human potential. That potential is driven by our intellectual abilities and cultural experience. There is meaning behind our creation; our creator gave us abilities for making of ourselves complete humans; humanity is a progressive development program.

To overcome challenge is part of that development and at this stage our social order has been corrupted by powers that manipulate by pride and prejudice. Along with this; ego is seduced by pride and helps the blindfolding of intelligence.

The most degenerate and destructive teachings of humanist dogma are:

- a) The denial of the existence of TRUTH and:
- b) The teaching that the Creation was a chance event.

NOTE: The idea of teaching that there is no truth will strike normally developed people as crazy; just too ridiculous to take seriously. Many may find it hard to believe that such teaching exists. However, it is part of our education system and many children accept it to the point of letting it ruin their lives. To help doubters accept that it does exist here is what Leonie Kramer, then Chancellor of the University of Sydney, said of this teaching, “This way madness lies”!

Of Truth.

Part 1.

Chapter 2:

Finding the truth in Gospels:

Those who seek life’s reality must be prepared to leave self behind.

They must become as a child, innocent of all ideas except the necessity of knowing that the reality of life is truth.

The truth seeker will learn that a substantial being can only exist when its intelligence accepts reality to see that the self of emotional desire is only a virtual reality. The true self can only be free to act in its own true nature when it accepts the reality of truth.

This is not a story of my search for truth but a few things for perspective. Memories of my fascination with life, creation and desire for truth are among my earliest memories. I observed behavior and wondered about it. My mother was the intellectual of our family but I quickly learned two very important lessons:

- 1/ Others often did not have answers for my questions and,
- 2/ Others often give opinions and opinions not based on sound evidence have no value.

To start young is important because you have not developed fixed ideas; you see no urgency; you can look for clues but you can also wait. Your everyday life needs freedom of time to allow your mind to ruminate; quiet time for contemplation is very important.

By age seventeen I had left my country home to gain access to a first-class capitol city Library. Lifetime decisions were urgently needed; was life created by chance or by intelligence? If the answer was “by chance” then I could live as I liked – if the answer was “by intelligence” then life had meaning and it was essential to find out more about it.

Study of evolution soon showed this theory, contrary to the claims of its supporters, to be disproved by science; it is a religion driven by primitive desires and based on faith; a fine example of the lesson of the Emperor without clothes. Would other religions have useful answers?

Religions in general were strong on wisdom but only in the New Testament were revelations of a truly superior understanding. These, as we shall see, also attach to “Old Testament” writings. There was much to discover.

An Indian philosopher, on some subject, said:
“If you say that it is – you are wrong; if you say that it’s not – you are mistaken.”

Truth is, in many ways, like that. Searchers have preconceptions of total revelation – of uncovering an all-empowering mystery. Well it is and it’s not. Do we fail because we do not start from the beginning or because we start with beliefs that lead us to misunderstandings?

Yes, truth is of vital importance and yet it is, in a way, mundane. How can I put it? You are a child. You awaken in a dark room. You hear a faint noise. You think you felt something move. Is someone creeping up to grab you? Is there a snake in your room? What if ... ? You pull the blankets over your head and shout “MUMMY”.

The light comes on. You uncover your head and look around. The cat has decided to sleep on the end of your bed. You know the TRUTH; there is nothing to fear.

You are older. You are married and have children. Someone you love is killed. What happened? What were they doing? Why were they there? Was it an accident? Was it ...? What if ...?

Losing a loved one is bad enough, not knowing the why, when or how of it is devastating. You desperately want the TRUTH.

Can you now conceive of anyone being so crazy as to claim that there is no truth? Can you imagine you can make up any belief you like and it will do? Can it be that the importance of truth is to just know it?

Well it is and it’s not! Life can have difficult lessons but life itself should be easy. What makes life a disaster for many is that teachings of false beliefs promote loss of meaning in life.

Understanding of life and creation is not difficult. In fact we know the basics, we just have to put everyday knowledge into words and think seriously through the implications.

Truth is the most important need and revelation of life.

Truth is more important than food, clothing, and shelter. Before life, truth was! As we shall see, without truth in the order of creation, no thing exists. Nor can anything be created before an intelligence understands that the truth of order creates reality; and the idea must exist before the creation exists.

Once having existence and life, no progress is possible without the accumulation of life’s truth and, having civilization, advance and decline will accord with the advance and decline of truth just as the passing of numerous civilizations has confirmed.

In times of stress we DEMAND the truth; indicating that NOW, in this time of crisis, the TRUTH is essential; we cannot make rational decisions without it – we HAVE to KNOW the TRUTH. Suddenly it seems we are faced with the undeniable reality that without truth no rational decision can be made; no communication is possible; no rational act is performed.

Without truth, living is futile, intelligence helpless. Lives are wasted in frustration, or petty, useless endeavor – wasted in trying to achieve what may be impossible, horrific, or self-destructive if attained.

In time of crisis we see most clearly the need and urgency for truth. But is a time of crisis different from other times? If we used intelligence wisely then we may understand that truth is always urgent, always necessary. Had we truth always, then decisions would be rational and crises rare.

If not misled, people instinctively see that truth is essential to rational decision-making; it is only by deliberate deceit that truth, in twentieth-century society, has become something of a dirty word: a fear in our darkness.

Why are we afraid of truth?

Who am I and why am I afraid? I am afraid because I see my beliefs as being myself. The SELF – the I of I AM – the REAL ME. My lifetime decisions have been made in accordance with what I believe. If my beliefs are wrong then my life is wrong.

It has been said: "Who kicks my dog, kicks me." The dogs that are closest to each of us are our dogmas of belief. Each life is a model of a person's beliefs and everything that person achieves is a reflection of that person's nature. We are best known by our works.

Our hopes and efforts are molded out of beliefs: our ingrained desires, unrecognized aversions, and secret assumptions – out of ideas forced on us as children, agreed to because they were the entrance fee to a desired peer group, or taken up because they seemed to suit some purpose of our past. As beliefs were accepted, life's decisions were made in their image; beliefs create the self-image that each person accepts as the real 'self'.

Our lives are the product of our structure of beliefs – beliefs that have been accepted in a pattern that has seemed to suit our hopes and be acceptable to our friends. Academic position or respectability may be on the line if we challenge, or depart from, our conventional beliefs.

So HOW CAN we look for the real truth? Our beliefs may have misled and made futile the lives of many others – mostly loved ones. It is easy to see why important new discoveries and upsets to established beliefs and scientific theories – are so strenuously resisted. The most educated and the most passionate in reform feel they have most to lose – but why? Do they not also realize that they have most to gain!

This is why mankind so strongly resists 'outside' ideas when these challenge religiously held ideas and ideals. Everyone (admitted or not) has a religion! Any ideal not based on fact is based on faith and that is a religion whether ideologues admit it, or like it, or not.

Ideological dogma, religious dogma, cultural dogma: our divisions give ample opportunity for the observation of just how strongly we resist ideas which pose – or even seem to pose – a threat to our attitudes. We willingly risk death to defend our beliefs.

The Common attitude.

No! No! If there is a reality called truth I don't want to know about it. It would destroy my life! My life could become meaningless and I may have to begin all over again. The self I have struggled and lived for all my life may have to die; I would be left, naked as a baby, in a new world. The restraints would be unbearable now that I am used to being free.

Stop! If that is your reaction you are still not thinking. The life built on false concepts is without substance, a mere virtual reality. You really have nothing to lose!

You have everything – your true life, your true self – to gain. Yes! We willingly risk death out of a misguided loyalty to our beliefs – but IS that rational? Would it not be far better to sacrifice our false beliefs to become a part of the real-life adventure?

Let us not surrender to those who would lead us astray!

Yes, we are led to believe that we are free, but are we? Read companion books to learn why we are not free but enslaved by false beliefs slyly and deliberately imposed on, and by, the culture we live in. The restraints on truth are crushing us into an ever more confining cage and this is to be seen in the pain of crime; pain; anger; and growing social, personal and administrative, corruption.

Corruption, as we shall see, is a deformity of the true order of life and creation. Corruption creates depravity, cruelty and injustice. We feel compelled to defend our ever-narrowing cage because we desperately need to defend the small space we are being crushed into. Can we really call that freedom?

Our perceptions of reality are deformed by seductively introduced deceptions. When we open our minds and begin to see life in the context of the freedom of truth then the imagined freedoms being worshipped today will be gladly discarded for the true, more rewarding, freedoms of reality.

As arrogant authorities work hard to convince us (in childhood) that there is no truth and we are tricked into doubting the reality of truth, our life attitude is deformed. It then becomes easy to not reason too much about our beliefs – truths of everyday living can then exist alongside religiously held convictions.

This is more complex than it may seem. Christian religion today tends to believe that when Jesus said "I am truth" he meant something different from 'everyday truth'. Given this evasion the Christian may feel that everyday lies do not compromise his faith.

By adopting vague emotions of truth as part of our religion we can choose ideas to suit ourselves; we can hold them firmly or lightly, or bend them or break them when it suits. All very convenient but, unfortunately, in the end, we are left with an empty shell of life and a culture of distress and suffering.

The way of "No truth" seems easy but is a blindfold, a wonderful help to those who want to rob and destroy us. Do not be misled into thinking that life is not a real "life and death struggle" or that we can rely on the natural goodness of strangers to help us out when we need it.

Of Truth

Part 1.

Chapter 3:

Let's identify truth

Who knows what truth is?

Who wants to know?

Who cares? There is no truth!

These may be among the thoughts of many, for, though truth troubles the minds of all people on occasion, it has been thought about deeply by few and few understand.

What is Truth?

Truth is a word and, like all words, is used, and misused, and confused. The truth, as we now discuss it, is to do with a logical and practical appreciation of life; it is not an imagined, selfish truth of airy-fairy ideology. No, our truth is just the natural everyday truth of life's order.

Life is a process from which we can learn. We can learn about ourselves and we can learn about life. We can learn from our own experience and also from the experience of others. Mankind has the ability, both morally and technically, to start each generation a little higher up the ladder of humanity. That civilizations fail is not because mankind lacks ability to learn and to teach, but because pride and timidity makes mankind a little more afraid of truth than of greed.

Is that not strange?

Cultural achievement leads to comfort and pleasure, easy pleasure encourages greed for more easy pleasure. Having succeeded over adversity we easily forget the disciplined effort. We welcome the easy pleasure and welcome the blindfold that encourages us to ignore natural consequences.

Greed forgets truth; greed imposes restraints, clouds vision – Truth offers discipline and reward for effort. Discipline to truth returns everything we need for a pleasure of achievement that brings lasting rewards. So greed for truth is the only greed that passes the test of intelligence.

Understanding of living truth, then, is something the world has never had enough of. It is something that has never been given the attention it now so urgently needs. To advance, we must be sufficiently aware of basic truth to make mostly right decisions.

When a culture becomes alienated from fundamental reality, then it begins to make mostly wrong decisions and, as we are not aware of the reason, these compound until social order disintegrates. It happens: tribes, cultures, civilizations: there have been human extinction's along with birds and animals; decay will always progress if left alone with time.

So let us get to know truth!

We do not have to be clever; we do not have to be mathematicians or atomic scientists, we just have to be rational reasoning humans who care enough about the future of humanity to sacrifice mistaken beliefs.

First: begin at the beginning. What is truth? Truth is $1+1=2$. If you can accept that then you know a truth. It follows then that truth extends into all the complications of mathematics. The entire structure of life relies on the one basic truth: $1+1=2$.

We may look in a book about engineering and see an algebraic expression; we don't need to know what it means but if we wanted to prove it true we could work it out and check that it agreed with the proposition that $1+1=2$.

If it did not do this then it would not be a true formula; and if algebra were not a true method of mathematical problem solving only the most foolhardy would ever trust their lives to any technology based on algebraic method.

An evidence of truth is its ability to forecast. That our engineers are able to forecast as confidently and accurately as they do is evidence that present engineering beliefs are predominantly true, and also that mathematics is an expression of truth. (For contrast, consider economic forecasting. Or road law that attempts to reduce accidents.)

The equation $1+1=2$ is among the oldest and most universally provable, of scientific facts. Any cave man or woman could place one stone alongside another and observe that the result would always be two stones. All logic, science, rational description – all communication of intelligence, depends on this. No rational communication would be possible were this not consistent.

You think this is simplistic; I know you know the obvious. But many now going through education will not know the obvious because mathematics, for the commonalty, is being downgraded to extinction. So what chance do they have of understanding truth if those who do know, do not appreciate life's basic nature?

Because we start with wrong ideas we look for complexity rather than simplicity. In fact we often do not know what we know until we fix it by personal effort into writing.

Were we taught the importance of truth from childhood there would never be a problem. Religions must take some responsibility for this because, to emphasize their majesty, they like to create mysteries where there are none. But the main culprit is a personal ego that may believe it can formulate an ideology that will create a better human nature than that which, in their ego, they are blind to.

If we are to understand truth, then we MUST lay the foundation for our reasoning on the firmest possible base. So far as is scientifically known, everything directly related to life is bound by the one system of logic – the logic that tells us that $1+1=2$.

Though there may, in science, be theories that appear illogical, one may assume that such theories are incorrect or based on wrong assumptions. The speed of light is one that appears to contradict logic so do not be surprised when it is found to be not yet properly understood.

Although there are many things that are not at present well understood we may reasonably assume that, when and if they are understood, they will exist within the area of life's common logic. We may make these assumptions because every understood order within our life area obeys the same logic.

Some will say we do not properly understand anything. In perfection this may be; however life is not lived in perfection; truth is fixed but life is flexible: we advance in truth. Order is at the base of creation and we are given the intelligence to understand that.

It may be possible that not ALL the universe is confined to a common logic, but all things relevant to our living do. This means that any rational reasoning being, given clear understanding of any particular matter, will come to a similar answer as another rational reasoning being in possession of clear understanding. The common logic integrates all individual truths.

So truth (in our area of existence) is the reality of a creation based on mathematical laws and within reach of logical intellectual processes. Human truth is not different from any other truth – it is not an alien logic. Life, as lived in the environment of this universe, must obey its laws, or pay a price.

Although the human has a personal freedom (as allowed by the ability to reason and choose) and a spiritual substance not yet scientifically isolated, life's freedom is both allowed by and confined by, the order of our creation. The truth of human life is based on $1+1=2$.

So "Of Truth" is about the truth of cause and effect: the natural mechanics of life. We already know that this is relevant to bridges and TV sets, but how many see that it also relates to such things as life and death; justice and injustice; joy and sorrow; love and hate. A culture of corrupted order creates all the negatives so rapidly escalating in our human world today?

To advance, we have to see that life is based on a standard logic – a standard intelligence. Our Creator has pure intelligence and pure truth, we have polluted intelligence and polluted truth, but intelligence and truth are the same everywhere.

We have been created to achieve a high level of purity of intelligence but it takes time and dedication to achieve our rewards. Our Creator does not see time as we do, the time taken to achieve our present level appears incomprehensible to us but to our Creator, it is of little concern.

NOTES: We may only reach truth if we approach it with innocence free of demand or preconception; it will not be found through searching to support personal preferences. It is not a matter of magic or mysticism; life is both built by, and confined by, cause and effect.

Of Truth

Part 1.

Chapter 4:

AUTHORITY –

truth gets social. Truth is:

"The reality of the Order in which we exist".

However, understanding needs a little more.

We need to know what "order" and by what "authority".

Do we need authority for truth? Would not truth be its own authority? Well it is and it's not. It is true of the truth discussed in chapter four: let us call that the "Universal Truth". Universal Truth is true in the abstract: that is, even if no thing at all existed, the logic of numbers is valid; no life can exist without its containment in the order of living truth. Now look at another aspect of truth; the truth of the reality of things that exist – the things we create.

When we talk about “created truth” then we need also talk about “authority”, and with authority comes order/discipline/ structure/and so on. That is because we cannot have created truth (the truth of things we create) without involvement of their order/structure/discipline/or whatever.

But let’s not confuse the issue with many words of similar use. Example: To construct a chair we place various materials into an ordered or disciplined relationship; or structure, or organization; and if the order/structure/discipline/or what-ever we call it, breaks down, then our chair breaks down. For simplicity I will try to confine those to the word “order”. “Created Truth” requires an “authority”; it is the “truth of its order” that gives it authority.

If order creates authority, then what is the authority for “order”? As a substantial truth depends on a substance, the “authority” of the substance comes from Universal Truth.

Universal Truth is in the order of mathematics and what we really have before “created order” is a “plan”, or “concept” or Biblically the “WORD”. This plan, concept or “word” is authorized by Universal Truth; i.e. the truth of mathematics. The ‘order’ created by chance is “disorder” even if it does represent something it is not planned for some purpose. So: as my grandfather told me one day when in the garden I saw him weed out a plant that was a flower - "A weed is just a plant in the wrong place."

Order – authority – truth, all pre-exist but in non-physical form. The seed of a plant could be used for illustration: The truth of the plant does not exist, but the plan for its creation is there in the seed. The intellectual concept always precedes the physical order; any order of meaning to come is predetermined by its concept; by its birth in intelligence.

Witness: JOHN 1-7. "WHEN ALL THINGS BEGAN, THE WORD ALREADY WAS. THE WORD DWELT WITH GOD, AND WHAT GOD WAS, THE WORD WAS."

The Word preceded the creation. The Word: the design of the Creation, was translated into the creation. Mankind is given intellectual spirit to become humanity, and humanity creates its social order. For humans the “WORD” is truth in ORDER, and the LAW is to maintain truth in the creation.

John 14:6. "I AM THE WAY; I AM THE TRUTH AND I AM LIFE; NO ONE COMES TO THE FATHER EXCEPT BY ME".

We can know the creator through the truth of the creation. We cannot know the intelligence until we understand the creation.

Repeat: "For all that may be known of God by man lies plain before their eyes: indeed God himself has disclosed it to them. His invisible attributes, which is to say His everlasting power and deity, have been visible, ever since the world began, to the eye of reason, in the things He has made".

Simply interesting: Simply obvious: Simply logical: Simply beyond challenge.

The Creator is God! The “WORD” is ORDER and order, the design within the LAW imposed by truth, pre-existed the creation.

Truth is the name we use to express the reality of order in the created universe. Truth is our God in the created universe. Order is meaningful achievement: the re-structuring of chaos into order in keeping with the law of truth.

We are not just referring to order as of a universe; we are talking of order that is planned to result in intelligent life for intelligent purpose.

We now see that the truth of things that exist depends on the authority of their order. In our world the authority and order come into being simultaneously. The “Word” is the pre-existing concept of intelligence for a creation in universal order.

Universal Truth is the truth of all original order but, when we humans are left to construct things we may depart from the best order. To be perfect the orders of things created need to comply with the authority of truth and when our creations depart from Universal Order we have corrupt and unreliable creations to the extent of their non-compliance.

The truth of the creation is therefore the reality of the order in which it exists.

Worldly authority:

The word authority will bring to mind different things on different occasions. At one time it may mean the authority of police and law; at another of a scholarly person; at another, that of your boss at your place of work and so on. Here, we are considering authority in the sense of the authority created by a physical order.

Authority is created by the order of the things created so these do not have to be perfect. All things existing have an order in their construction including computer, human, government and atom. Everything exists in an order. Everything we construct is an ordering of materials that are themselves created of order-disciplined substances.

Each element has its own fixed order.

Order creates AUTHORITY; what exists without authority is disorder. Living, non-living; single unit, compound! Government or army; tree or nail! Moving or still; growing or dying! All levels in support of human life, and life itself, have the authority of truth in their order – in order is the harmony expressed by truth.

So what exactly is authority?

Authority is a concept, a concept of a force. Authority is the force generated by, or attendant on, order. The fact of an order coming into existence means that a displacement of chaos has occurred. Chaos has been displaced by order. A force has been constructed and this force exerts influence. This force gives authority to the order.

Suppose we order some materials so as to create a machine gun and a motorcar. The raw materials used may be similar but it is immediately obvious that the two are of different order.

As they are ordered differently they therefore have differing authorities. One provides authority for the firing of missiles at people 'over there', but is quite useless for transporting us over there. The car has a very efficient authority for transporting us to places such as 'over there', but only so long as we obey the authority of the order.

The order of the car's mechanism must be maintained or its authority to transport you will be impaired, and you may, in truth, not reach your destination without calling on some other authority for assistance.

The roadway itself is also an order; its order gives it authority to help traffic flow. In truth you may use the order of the roadway and you may also drive your car off the roadway. BUT, if you try to drive where there is no authority for your car to go, you are liable to have to pay a penalty – a penalty such as damage, fine, or restraint.

In addition you should take note of the order of road transport rules and regulations. Again you have free will to obey or to disobey; if you do not obey then again there is likely to be a penalty.

Each 'order' is authority for its own truth and some orders overlap and intermingle: as with car, road and law.

It is seen that the authority doesn't force us to obey, but that when we depart from obeying the truth of an order, we are liable to penalty. It is also noted that different orders might demand different kinds of penalty; a penalty may be ill health; damage to property; wealth; pain; pride or whatever.

Even that most insubstantial of things - chance - has its order/law and authority. Should you be out driving and decide to pass on a blind corner, it will probably be the law of averages which will decide your penalty for not obeying the order of the roadway or the authority of intelligence.

Chance itself is not a 'thing' but is the name given to a kind of adjudicator, which probably results from the need for flexibility in combinations of order. Chance is the tax collector of order and ensues that infringements of order are paid for.

Every person is not made to pay instantly, or at all, for every anti-social act; but every infringement of social order will be paid for by someone, sometime – that is the law of the order of nature. Our culture is an order and natural laws ensure payment to life's nature while human laws are devised to punish those who break culture's law, and, by nature of bad design or chance may transfer penalty to those innocent.

The cost of disorderly behavior, ('wrong-doing' or stupidity) that escapes penalty by its perpetrator has to be paid for even at the cost of injustice to another, but, because we all commit anti-social acts we are all responsible for injustice.

In attempt to maintain natural balance with justice, cultural laws attempt to fill the gap. This is a challenge for human intellect; justice is our responsibility to each other. Whether or not this is achieved, the universal balance (justice) is maintained.

Changing worldly order?

When we come up against a force generated by an authority we come up against truth. We may find this truth beneficial and reliable if it is a truthful order, or not so if it is a corrupt order. We may find authority comforting if we understand the truth, irritating if our understanding is corrupt. If we cannot understand and isolate the authority then any attempt at change it is likely to result in new frustration and hurt.

We may be able to dismantle or change an offending order if it is an order created by human authority. However benefit will only come if the new creation is of order more compatible with truth.

An orderly example

Consider a bucket of milk. The bucket and the milk are ordered very differently. The bucket has authority to restraint and confer a degree of portability on milk; but milk has no authority for transporting the bucket – except – except that the milk may be devoured by some other order and converted into energy. But, when this has been done the milk, as such, no longer exists; the order and the authority of the milk has been dismantled and converted into a new order and a new authority.

This is the way it always is: if we want to change the authority, then we have to change the order. The order creates the authority.

As with other things, so, also, with ourselves: whether we count the human body as complete in itself or as just a vehicle for the spiritual self, the principles still apply.

To take care of our bodies we have to obey the authority of the body's order; we can do little to change the order and we cannot, beneficially, make emotional decisions as to what is good for it and what is not.

If we take care of our bodies in ways in agreement with the truth of their order, then they give good service; if we treat them in ways less compatible they give less satisfaction, or perhaps none at all. The satisfaction a body gives will be in direct relation to how well we support the authority of its order. Today we have to allow for abuse suffered as a result of political planning and the ignorance of past and present generations.

The highest order created by humans is the human culture and to advance that we must conform to order. If we believe that there is no truth then we become blind to the order and law in life.

When we create a culture opposed to truth's order the result is a corrupt and increasingly disorderly culture. Law begins to enforce law rather than justice. Citizens become increasingly frustrated. Violence expands as restrictions become irritating. Culture disintegrates! Change becomes more rapid and obvious to the honest eye but the eye that knows no truth sees no evil. In relation to life evil is breakdown of order.

The human body is an orderly creation based on universal principles that also apply to life; surely we can see that our social order is open to the same benefits and restraints! We have intellect to learn, observe and create. We can open the door to an incredible future or throw life away. That is our challenge.

Behavior, morality, corruption and justice all react with equal certainty in our social activities? Every created thing is a two-edged sword. Human means responsible, intelligence allows us to understand and advance life in our best interests.

Of Truth

Part 1.

Chapter 5:

Social & Political Authority

If we don't know the nature of authority we don't understand our choices or agree about them. Without humanizing experience each feels entitled to opinions that have no more value than the force of their owner.

Today we live under corrupt authority! Were we willing to seek out true authority and make understanding of truth common then, in the nature of life, room for conflict would wither along with misunderstanding and hatred. The order of humanity gives us authority to create order but unless based on Universal Order the creations will be corrupt.

Order creates its own authority, if the order is corrupt then its truth will be personal and in conflict with universal truth. Suffering, in a world of manipulation and deceit, is a simple matter of cause and effect. We, given intelligence and freedom, are responsible.

Authority of leaders.

Is there need for some to have power over others if authority is preordained by the nature of the order we inhabit?

We have human authorities based on force because we are free to obey or disobey universal order. Given freedom to disobey we seek to avoid or ignore. The result is confusion and a power gap that human law making seeks to fill. Every area of existence is dependent on order; be it a brain or thinking process, a rock or a child's toy. The order, authority, and truth, are inseparable. We can never enjoy our full potential in life, sport, business or any intellectual pursuit without embracing the self-discipline of orderliness.

We are given intellect for self-development so why do we allow our thought processes to be seduced to avoid discipline? Why do we allow our intellect controlled and used for ignorant, selfish and destructive purposes? The great triumph of humanism was to persuade people that loving physical punishment of children (the efficient discipline) was a crime against humanity.

We allow ourselves to be seduced to give priority to our animal instincts and ignore that animals are behavior programmed; we are responsible; they are not.

Over generations we learned basic human disciplines, most tried and succeeded in one man, one woman, relationships to the lasting benefit of human culture.

We are now seduced to deliberately destroy the loving family bond of our children by inciting them to promiscuity before teenage. We cannot warn them of the consequences because we, as adults, have accepted our corrupt state as normal but in consequence irresponsibility grows.

If our political system obeys a corrupt authority or philosophy then our option is to reform the system. BUT AGAIN: if what we do is based on a corrupted (self-indulgent) decision, the new system will also be corrupt.

Neither you, nor I, nor government – nor mankind as a whole – can arbitrarily decree that life is best lived in one way or another. It is the order of life itself that decrees what is good, or not good, for it.

Humanity has choice within limits. Greater corruption brings greater penalty. At some point, social order disintegrates. The laws came into force with the creation of the universe and, as our Christian Bible tells us, even God cannot change this without destruction of the creation.

MATTHEW 5-18. "I TELL YOU THIS: SO LONG AS HEAVEN AND EARTH ENDURE, NOT A LETTER, NOT A STROKE, WILL DISAPPEAR FROM THE LAW UNTIL ALL THAT MUST HAPPEN HAS HAPPENED."

LUKE 16-17. "IT IS EASIER FOR HEAVEN AND EARTH TO COME TO AN END THAN FOR ONE DOT OR STROKE OF THE LAW TO LOSE ITS FORCE."

Do these Gospels not witness something to you? Can we not see now that if the atomic order (the base of the universe) were to be changed the existing system would disintegrate back to primordial chaos? Total destruction is the alternative to retaining the order on which our creation is based.

Two thousand years ago someone knew things we still refuse to learn. Not only have we failed to learn but now let thieves rob us of our ability to learn. What a price for sloth, pride and prejudice!

Basic guidelines for living are not only fundamental, but well within human ability to understand and use. However, despite their simple logical nature they are facts of life that, because we fail to use our intellectual abilities, have been poorly understood; we prefer not to question our animal pleasures. The most reliable, teacher of social order has been the Christian Bible, but religions increasingly turn this to dead dogma to give it emotional bias and corrupt interpretations.

The meanings of Gospels' quotations above should hardly have needed explanation. Their meanings are not expanded on, so far as I know, in common religious teaching. Today, social science works with eyes closed to both science and social consequences.

Will Christian religions complain that equating the creation to maths is belittling? If, in their eyes it is, then they know nothing of God. God is neither egotist, simpleton nor magician! The creation is within a natural order! Life was meant to be easy but only by living within the truth of the order can we enjoy its full benefit.

Now you may say: "If life is based on mathematics/geometry how can we possibly work out such compound complexity as our best social order?"

Remember LOGIC? Logic is perception of principles allowing sight of relationships between truths. Logic can be "short-cut" maths or "instinct". Do you think a tennis champion works out in a split second the combined relative speed and trajectory of the ball, the angle and trajectory of the racquet and the court position of himself and opponent so as to hit a winning shot?

No! Be it tennis or culture, logical perception takes account of experience, skill and practice – of our own experience and the experience of others (we have had time and coaching to back up our experience).

Whatever our chosen role in life we advance our understanding by accepting truth and then building on principles: instinctive or otherwise. If we ignore the reality of truth then we just descend into self-destructive confusion.

Why are we left to develop our humanity and our culture? Well your guess may be as good as mine but, can we agree with the evidence that human life is a planned development of life and logically has meaning beyond mere existence?

The New Testament is very impressive. An archaeologist on a dig may uncover a beautiful mosaic damaged by scars of battle and the accumulated grime from countless feet, but there, still visible, are parts of the pattern of a fantastic revelation. "How could people, for so long, be so blind"? It was truly said that the blind would lead the blind. Was it just chance that I had recently read some wisdom of old religions such as:

"If you wouldst know the secret of the True, Let pass the word, the thought, the thought, pursue."
Sufi writings.

*"Study the linked words, no doubt, but look Behind them for the thought they indicate,
And having found it, throw the words away.
As chaff when you have sifted out the grain."*
Upanishad's.

*"Let not grammarians scrutinise
Too close the language of the wise;
The seers think more of the thought
Than of the words in which 'tis caught."* Sufi writings.

How young the child learns to remove the wrapping from the sweet! But how many years does it take for educators to learn and to teach, that, though we need learn to use and spell words correctly, they are only the wrappings of understanding. Quotations above are from: "The Essential Unity of All Religions", by Bhagavan Das.

The New Testament told me that to find truth I should be as a child. I had been saved the full trauma of this because I had begun my search as a child, but still the message was relevant; I must remain as open to truth as a child: there is always a long way to go.

Others remind me of lessons to be remembered! There was truth to be found in "The Revelation of John" and mysteries hidden in its language. The same message seems to be repeated in different forms, possibly as security against inevitable biased translation. I do not pretend that all is revealed to me.

The GLORY of LIFE: What life can create is wonderfully complex while life itself is so beautifully simple – and yet – the source of it may be forever beyond us. Certainly our science today does not approach any answer as to origins.

We do not need to be afraid of truth. Truth is the source of our existence. Yet the Christian Bible says we should fear God. It is not that we should fear that Truth, or God, may harm us but fear the consequence of moving away from Truth.

The description of God and heaven given in Revelations may seem unreal until we understand that God is truth: that our welfare depends on a continuous acknowledgement that truth is the reality if we want to discover the adventure and beauty life offers.

We should understand that we are not created perfect except in the meaning that we are created perfect for our journey to full humanity and to experience all that the wonders and mysteries creation allows. The Creator did not create humanity to be merely ornamental, a toy or, like the common animals, biological robots.

Could we believe that God wanted to create a sterile meaningless humanity with nowhere to go – nothing to achieve? Could it be that we are being offered a part in a creation process?

We, I am confident, will be not only able to recreate the things that have been created but also some of the infinite possibilities unknown in our world. Why would anyone ever want to sacrifice the life adventure we are offered for the nothingness of chaos?

Of Truth

Part 1.

Chapter 6;

Meeting Jesus!

Many years ago I met Jesus in a dream.

No ordinary dream and not,
Biblically speaking, unusual.

But, had you been there at the time and asked immediately after what He looked like,
I could not have told you.

Can there be no description of Jesus? I accepted that, as he represented every-man, then every-man might fail to see anything to excite memory. Or was it perhaps a necessary disguise to stop people drawing cultural or racial conclusions? Or did this mystery only apply to those open to conviction: would a passing stranger stopping to look at this man addressing a crowd see differently and would what he saw be the true image? As an immortal, is the true image of Jesus meaningless to us?

I don't know but those who are afraid to face truth will still believe what they like and, to save their pride, might claim that He never existed or was just an ordinary person married to one of his followers. However, those capable of honestly weighing the evidence and reaching logical conclusions, will ignore the foolish escapists while still accepting that mysteries remain.

Jesus of Nazareth was a genuine historical being! Apart from physical presence His authority is proven by the fact that he was also a person with understanding far above that of humans. Many (Christians and non-Christians alike) appear not aware of all the evidence. He may well be the best-documented person of his time?

Jesus lived in the time of one of the great empires of history! This was no barbarian empire and Governors had to send written reports back to Rome. Religious leaders also wrote reports of events to their Priests and congregations.

As Jesus was a well-known person of that time he was, as we would expect, mentioned in dispatches. We can thank Mr. D. J. Pinwill and his book "Knowledge Without Wisdom" for the following research and quotations.

"...the President of Judea about 33AD, one Publius Lentulus, to the Roman Senate. This letter was part of the civic records of the Romans who were the rulers of the Holy Land at the time. Some prints of the King James Bible have this physical description of Jesus included in their Biblical notes.

"There lives at this time in Judea, Jesus Christ, whom the barbarians esteem as a prophet, but His followers love and adore Him as the offspring of the immortal God. He calls the dead from their graves, and heals all sorts of disease with a word or a touch. He is a tall man and well shaped, of an amiable and reverend aspect. His hair of a color that can hardly be matched, falling into graceful curls, waving about and very agreeably crouching upon His shoulders, parted on the crown of his head, running as a stream to the front after the manner of the Nazarites. His forehead high, large and imposing; His cheeks a lovely red; nose and mouth formed with exquisite symmetry; His beard thick and of a color suitable to the hair and parting in the middle like a fork; His eyes bright blue, clear and serene; look innocent, dignified, manly and mature. His hands and arms most delectable to behold.

He rebukes with majesty, counsels with mildness; His whole address, whether in word or deed, being eloquent and grave. No man has seen Him laugh; yet His manners are exceedingly pleasant, but He has wept frequently in the presence of men. He is temperate, modest and wise; a man for His extraordinary beauty and divine perfections; surpassing the children of men in every sense. "

"Another well accepted source of information from the times of Jesus is Josephus. He was a priest, scholar and historian of the first century and he wrote several books that contain valuable information including "The Antiquities of the Jews." His works are often quoted by modern day scholars. Josephus was not a follower of Jesus.

Here is an extract:

"Now there was about this time Jesus, a wise man, if it be lawful to call Him a man; for He was a doer of wonderful works, a teacher of such men as receive the truth with pleasure. He drew over to him many of the Jews and many of the Gentiles. He was the Christ. And when Pilate, at the suspicion of the principal men among us, had condemned Him to the cross, those that loved Him at the first did not forsake Him; for He appeared to them alive again the third day, as the divine prophets had foretold these and then 10,000 other wonderful things concerning Him. And the tribe of Christians, so named after Him, are not extinct at this day. "

"The Roman Empire was not just a mighty war machine. Law was established in the conquered lands and government records kept. Many of these are available to this day and can be researched in places like Constantinople and the records of the Senatorial Docket taken from the Vatican in Rome. ...

"As you can imagine, Rome was a little nervous about all the unrest caused by Jesus and His followers so, naturally, there are government reports and letters dealing with this subject. One such letter is a report written by Pontius Pilate himself (who was the Roman Prefect of Judea at the time of Christ) and it is addressed to "Tiberius Caesar, Emperor of Rome." Here is an extract as written in "The Archko Volume," translated by Drs. McIntosh and Twyman. Page 131.

"One day in passing by the place of Siloe, where there was a great concourse of people, I observed in the midst of the group a young man who was leaning against a tree, calmly addressing the multitude. I was told it was Jesus. This I could easily have suspected, so great was the difference between Him and those listening to Him. His golden colored hair and beard gave to His appearance a celestial aspect. He appeared to be about 30 years of age. Never have I seen a sweeter or more serene countenance. What a contrast between Him and His hearers, with their black beards and tawny complexions. Never have I read in the works of the philosophers anything that can compare to the maxims of Jesus. It was on account of the wisdom of His sayings that I granted so much liberty to the Nazarene. This unlimited freedom granted to Jesus provoked the Jews — not the poor, but the rich and powerful. "

“There are various other reports of Jesus by important historians who have written of the events that happened only a few decades before they were born. Pliny the Younger, Cornelius Tacitus and Suetonius (none of whom were Christians, in fact they used to execute Christians) would have had access to recent and reliable information. The above offerings are sufficient to prove that Jesus Christ was indeed, a very real visitor to this Earth. Even the Encyclopedia Britannica states, "Independent accounts prove that in ancient times even the opponents of Christianity never doubted the historicity of Jesus”

"Birth and Resurrection

“..... (Acts5:34-39) and the apostle Paul mentions that he was taught at the feet of Gamaliel (Acts 22:3). It was Gamaliel that was sent by the Sanhedrin to interview Joseph and Mary about the circumstances surrounding the birth of Jesus. His report can be read in the holy writings in the St. Sophia Mosque at Constantinople, in the Talmuds of the Jews 27B. ³² The following is part of that report.

"She (Mary) seems to be about forty or forty-five years of age, abounds with a cheerful and happy spirit and is full of happy fancies. She is fair to see, rather fleshy, has soft and innocent eyes, and seems naturally to be a good woman.

"I asked her if Jesus was the son of Joseph. She said he was not. I asked her to relate the circumstances of the child's history. She said that one day when she was grinding some meal there appeared at the door a stranger in shining raiment, which showed as bright as a light.

She was very much alarmed at his presence and trembled like a leaf; for he said, "Mary, thou art loved by the Lord and He has sent me to tell thee that thou shalt have a child; that this child will be great and rule all nations of the earth. "

"She continued; "I immediately thought of my engagement to Joseph, and supposed that was the way the child was to come; but he astonished me the more when he told me that cousin Elizabeth had conceived and would bear a son, whose name would be John; (John the Baptist) and my son was to be called Jesus.

I asked the messenger if Joseph knew anything of the matter. He said that he told Joseph that I was to have a child by command of the Holy Ghost, and that he was to redeem his people from their sins, and was to reign over the whole world; that every man should confess to him and he should rule over all the kings of the earth."

"I asked her how she knew it was an angel, and she said he told her so, and then she knew he was an angel from the way he went. I asked her to describe how he went away from her, and she said he seemed to melt away like the extinguishing of a light.

"I asked her if at the time of the angel, as she called him, visited her, was she 'almah' (that is, virgin). She said she was; that she had never showed to man, nor was known by any man. I asked her if she at the time maintained her fourchette'; and after making her and Joseph understand what I meant, they both said she had, and Joseph said this was the way he had of testing her virtue. I asked her if she knew when the conception took place. She said she did not. ..."

“The next question that must be dealt with is - Did Jesus really die or was he taken down from the cross and revived secretly at a later time?

"All the evidence points to the fact that Jesus must have been dead. Crucifixion is a cruel and torturous death but it was a common punishment at the time. It's hard to imagine anyone lasting very long in this situation before the relief of death would come. The accounts in the Gospels are adamant that Jesus "gave up the ghost."

"The soldiers that came to break His legs, as was done to the thieves on either side of Him, decided not to bother because they could see He was already dead.

“Remember, soldiers of this era were very familiar with death and what it looked like, so it is hardly likely that they would be mistaken.

"Common sense also dictates that Pilate himself had a vested interest in being sure the main focus of the recent riots and civil unrest was gone forever. The Roman Empire did not want any self-proclaimed 'king' coming back to challenge Caesar's authority and start stirring up more trouble. Jesus would have been certified dead as was normal practice.

“Add to this the motives of the local political masters, the Sanhedrin. They were in the position of having forced the hand of Pontius Pilate to condemn the innocent Jesus to death and they were very aware that Jesus had promised to return alive after three days. The last thing they wanted was to have this person, whom they despised, pull some magical trick and fool the populace that he had returned from the dead. They were watching all proceedings very closely and had posted their own guards to prevent just such an occurrence.

"Obviously, they were 100% convinced that Jesus was deceased before they would have agreed to letting Him down from the cross. It's not likely that Jesus could have survived all of this. ..."

"It is astonishing how evidence can turn up in the most unlikely places. Caiaphas was the head of the Sanhedrin and the main accuser of the innocent Jesus. This was the man that was the instigator of crucifying Jesus and yet, as it turns out, he is also one of the main witnesses (apart from the Bible) that Jesus did rise from the grave. There seems to be a certain justice in that. Once again we can go to the St. Sophia Mosque (as mentioned earlier) and there we can read the actual report that Caiaphas wrote to the Sanhedrin on this very event. This is a fairly lengthy report so only the sections that impact directly on the subject we are dealing with have been quoted. It is an amazing read.

"To You, Masters of Israel; I feel duty bound to communicate to you some facts that have come to my knowledge. A few days after the execution of Jesus of Nazareth the report of his resurrection from the dead became so common that I found it necessary to investigate it, because the excitement was more intense than before, and my own life as well as that of Pilate was in danger. I sent for Malkus, the captain of the royal city guard, who informed me he knew nothing personally, as he had placed Isham in command of the guard; but from what he could learn from the soldiers the scene was awe-inspiring, and the report was so generally believed that it was useless to deny it. He thought my only chance was to suppress it among the soldiers, and have John and Peter banished to Crete, or arrested and imprisoned, and if they would not be quiet, to treat them as I had treated Jesus. He said that all the soldiers that he had conversed with were convinced that Jesus was resurrected by supernatural power and was still living, and that he was no human being, for the light of the angels and the dead that came out of their graves all went to prove that something had happened that had never occurred before. He said that John and Peter were spreading it all over the country, and that if Jesus would appear at the head of the host, and declare for the king of the Jews, he believed all the Jews would fight for him.

"I sent for the lieutenant, who gave a lengthy account of the occurrence that morning, all of which I suppose you have learned, and will investigate. From this I am convinced that something transcending the laws of nature took place that morning, that cannot be accounted for upon natural laws, and I find it is useless to try to get any of the soldiers to deny it, for they are so excited that they cannot be reasoned with. I regret that I had the soldiers placed at the tomb, for the very things they were to prevent they have helped to establish.

"After questioning the soldiers and officers to my satisfaction, my mind being so disturbed that I could neither eat nor sleep, I sent for John and Peter. They came and brought Mary and Joanna, who are the women that went to embalm Jesus' body the morning of the resurrection, as it is called. They were very interesting and they related the circumstances. Mary said that when they went day was just breaking. They met the soldiers returning from the sepulchre and saw nothing strange until they came to the tomb, and found that it was empty. The stone that covered the sepulchre was rolled to one side, and two men dressed in flowing white were sitting, one at each end of the sepulchre. Mary asked them where was her Lord; they said, 'He is risen from the dead; did he not tell you he would rise on the third day and show himself to the people, to prove that he was the Lord of life?' Go tell his disciples, they said.

"They both say that as they returned they met the Master, who told them he was the resurrection and the life; all that will accept will be resurrected from the second death. 'We fell at his feet bathed in tears and when we rose up he was gone.' Both these women wept for joy as they were relating this story, and John shouted aloud which made me tremble in every limb, for I could not help thinking that something that was the exclusive work of God had occurred, but what it all meant was a great mystery to me."

"This section of the Caiaphas report is followed by John and Peter answering questions about Jesus and giving account of some of the miracles that Jesus performed. It then continues.

"Thus argue Peter and John. If Jesus had such power over nature and nature's laws, and power over death in others, he would have such power over death that he could lay down his life and take it up again, as he said he would do. As he proposes to bring hundreds of witnesses to prove all he says, and much more — witnesses whose veracity cannot be doubted - and as I have heard many of these things before from different men, both friends and foes (and although these things are related by his friends — that is the friends of Jesus — yet these men talk like men of truth, and their testimony corroborates other evidence that I have from other sources that convinces me that this is something that should not be rashly dealt with), and seeing the humble trust and confidence of these men and women, besides, as John says, thousands of others equally strong in their belief, it throws me into great agitation.

“I feel sure that if I should meet Jesus that I should fall dead at his feet; and it seemed to me that if I went out I should be sure to meet him.

“In this state of conscious dread I remained investigating the scriptures to know more about the prophecies concerning this man, but found nothing to satisfy my mind. I locked my door and gave the guard orders to let no one in without first giving me notice. While thus engaged with no one in the room but my wife and Annas, her father, when I lifted up my eyes, behold Jesus of Nazareth stood before me. My breath stopped, my blood ran cold, and I was in the act of falling, when he spoke and said, 'Be not afraid, it is I. You condemned me that you might go free. This is the work of my Father. Your only wrong is you have a wicked heart; this you must repent of. This last lamb you have slain is the one that was appointed before the foundation; this sacrifice was made for all men. Your other lambs were for those who offered them; this is for all, this is the last; it is for you if you will accept it. I died that you and all mankind might be saved.

“At this he looked at me with such melting tenderness that it seemed to me that I was nothing but tears, and my strength was all gone. I fell on my face at his feet as one that was dead. When Annas lifted me up Jesus was gone, and the door still locked. No one could tell when or where he went.

“So noble masters, I do not feel that I can officiate as priest any more. If this strange personage is from God, and should prove to be the Saviour we have looked for so long, and I have been the means of crucifying him, I have no further offerings for sin; but I will wait and see how things develop. And if he proves to be the ruler we are looking for, they will soon develop into something more grand in the future. His glory will increase; his influence will spread wider and wider, until the whole earth shall be full of his glory, and all the kingdoms of the world shall be his dominion. Such are the teachings of the prophets on this issue. Therefore you will appoint Jonathan, or some one to fill the holy place.”

“How can anyone who reads this not be convinced about the resurrection? How can you argue against this compelling evidence -evidence that comes from the most notorious enemy of Christ? Only those who steadfastly refuse to accept the obvious, those who are determined to maintain themselves in a mental state of truth denial, will continue unconvinced. It is so much easier to argue 'for' the resurrection than against it. We will, if we are honest, believe it –Jesus lives.”

Here ends the quote from “Knowledge without Wisdom”. I have added nothing but deleted a little not needed here.

The important thing we can know about Jesus is that He represents truth and the order of truth that represents life. It can be claimed He said this or that, even with scriptural reference, but if it is not true to the “eye of reason” and to the creation itself, then it must be doubted. Let’s repeat: “All that may be known of God by men lies plain before their eyes ... to the eye of reason in the things He has made”.

Jesus made enough scientifically correct social statements that are still not accepted by today’s authorities. His knowledge and understanding was not only beyond His times but also ahead of the social teaching of today. That is all the evidence we need, I offer witnesses as a matter of interest only.

And on the Seventh day He rested.

The Word Lives in the Order of Life.

Chapter 8.

The Development of Human Culture!

“Men stumble over the truth from time to time, but most pick themselves up and hurry off as if nothing happened.” W. Churchill.

What is revealed in Of Truth may seem simple but it is not simplistic; that is the way of truth. Think of a pile of stone, lumber and metal, then of all the things that can be made of these. Think of a great Gothic Cathedral, how complicated and majestic it appears; but yet it is still composed of simple everyday materials. Construction may be intricate but it is still a simple progression of order.

Yes, we know so much in our everyday lives yet we now decline to think for ourselves. We reject our power to see the meaning of what we know.

We do not want to work things out: we want to remain babies in a frail womb. Even when our own science tells us that the ultimate nature of all physical creation lies in mathematics; that mathematics is the way to prove our understanding right, we still fail to see and admit that mathematics is the base for "order" and the "word" is the concept that preceded the creation.

We refuse to use our intelligence for reach of logical and unbiased, conclusions.

Strange but true, we do not want to admit that once we face the reality of common knowledge all the infinite possibilities of creation can become available to us.

"My load is light;" the Lord says; and it is. "The truth will set you free;" the Lord says; and it is beyond any scientific logic to show it otherwise. Are we too proud to listen – or too ashamed?

Think of all the office buildings in a city; of the millions who work in them; think of the truckloads of useful produce that enters but does not leave as useful production. Think of the roads and hospitals; the food and housing; the world's needs! Then think of the productive energy used in these buildings for no human benefit whatever.

What a difference it would make to your nation if the energy of these workers was used productively for human good – if the work and materials in those time-wasting, non-productive, buildings were in constructions and goods useful to people. If we were educated to human morality and governed ourselves to improve our efficiency rather than waste our minds on worry about this or that fashion, sport, political dispute or entertaining trivia.

Our philosophy of life causes us to waste, totally, about two thirds of our productive capacity and what we actually produce. Are we now too 'dumbed down' to understand the enormity of that? Too dumbed down to see the Looming Catastrophe?

It is both foolish and futile to fight against truth. Truth is our creator! Truth gave us life and the world we live in. Truth gave us intelligence to participate in creation by allowing us the freedom to create new reality; to be individual. When we deform truth to ignorance we are self-destructive.

As we have seen there is infinity of truths and yet all are encompassed in one truth. The need for flexibility in life means that there is infinity of part truths and untruths.

Truth does not force us to behave in accordance with the random desires of self-indulgent gods. We are not programmed, as are common animals although, of course, we could be were we intended to be nothing more. We are encouraged to be more: to find and serve our own true nature.

God is not like a human government! Nor were we created to serve a program as animals are, that is why mind manipulating to reduce us to animal level is the ultimate inhumanity! Humans can advance in understanding, the closer we get to truth the better our lives become and the more options for achievement.

Restricted in use of intelligence we retreat from truth then, restrained by chaos, our creative options vaporize. To advance order our minds must be free to appreciate truth.

Lack of physical restraint is only freedom so long as our minds are free. If our minds are restrained then our bodies are restrained; behavior is misdirected! Our suffering expands and life descends into chaos.

Two great untruths now rule our lives:
1/ The self-contradiction that says there is no truth.
2/ The deceit that creation occurred by chance.

These untruths were created by (and to serve) man-made concepts; these in turn serve the greed, pride and arrogance of those who desire the enslavement of humanity. We do not know we are manipulated by lies while those seeking ownership of the earth feel their pride and arrogance as their reward for clever deceit in a world of "survival of the fittest".

In false pride and desire to avoid human responsibility, the greedy lead the way (the blind lead the blind) but all have some responsibility for their blindness and for their love of false gods.

Thoughts on Truth:

Truth is absolute but man is fallible and unable to comprehend the absolute. For man, what is predominately true or which leads toward truth – is sufficient.

Certainties are enemies of truth – certainties are like great logs that jam the stream of the mind to reveal restriction and enslavement. Thoughts without knowledge are of no importance, only when thought is a result of reasoning based on fact/truth is it of value.

Spiral of Life:

The way to life is through Truth
The way to Truth is through Sacrifice
The way to Sacrifice is through Courage
The way to Courage is through Character

The way to Character is through Discipline
 The way to Discipline is through Authority
 The way to Authority is through Life
 The way to life

Three laws of Truth:

- 1/ To know truth – speak truth. Knowledge of truth requires practice of truth. The liar deceives himself.
- 2/ To know truth – develop love of truth. A biased mind fails to know the truth because bias insists on compromise of truth.
- 3/ To know truth – learn of good and evil. There is a truth of life which lives and a truth of life which dies. Without discernment we are without direction.

The Question of Sacrifice:

The question of Christian sacrifice has not been adequately understood. You will have noticed “sacrifice” in the “Spiral of Life”. Sacrifice is a Christian revelation so vital to the development of our human nature and understanding of life that it is right up there at the threshold of truth. It is the very doorway to knowing Truth better.

Sacrifice is a vital element of human love; so important to the spiritual ‘gene’! The nature of human sacrifice is also evidence that Christian Revelation is genuine. The true meaning of human self-sacrifice has never, and would never, be apparent to humanity without guidance from agents who knew our Creator represents truth; without this, intellectual self-sacrifice (willingness to sacrifice false belief) has no meaning. In a mindless creation (were it possible) self-sacrifice would be as meaningless as pity in a world where deceivers claim there is no truth but that they tell us the truth.

Be assured, sacrifice to God is sacrifice to Truth i.e., John 14:6 “I am the way; I am the truth and I am life; no one comes to the father except by me.”

Who is the great beneficiary of human sacrifice? Not God the Father, but the father gets satisfaction from the advance of the child. So our sacrifice is for our own spiritual and intellectual growth. Parents want their children to grow spiritually strong, and intellectually competent. Would our Creator not want this for his children?

Jesus called us “stiff-necked”. Meaning we are too proud to turn our heads to face the truth. Those who cannot grow intellectually are not God’s children. We must build on our talents, for Jesus told us, “Don’t bury your talents”! “to those who have, more will be given and those who have not, from them will be taken even the little they have.”

Leave self behind! Sacrifice the old self for new! We are not gods, we can never be so proud of our knowledge that we can afford not to sacrifice false beliefs and attitudes for truth. The better we know truth; the better (more beneficially) we live.

“We Know” – yes we do know so much but even those practiced may fail to recognize every step in the stairway they climb. We can all overlook the need to think things through to logical understanding.

Thought and self-sacrifice is vital to all who want to know truth better. Those who encourage sloth and self-indulgence try to mislead because they are misled.

Understanding of our origins is vital to human development; that is why Globalists have been so determined to fix evolution theory in our minds. They work to deform our vision to aid our destruction; it is to their advantage that we be neither healthy, wealthy nor wise – they do not want our competition.

Biblical limitations:

The Bible, corrupted by worldliness, is not the limit of knowledge. Israel suffered many hardships, the Old Testament needs particular caution after stress of rescue from scraps and memories. Jesus confirms that our Creator created in truth so we put aside for further study all not a logical component of a rational creation.

But it is not only the Old Testament that is corrupted by the ideas and desires of those putting the pieces together. A recent find of an old manuscript in Egypt re-ignites the question of who actually wrote the Gospel of John. The reason for this doubt rests squarely on the bias of the men assembling the New Testament from memories only a few generations old. However, knowing the creation is a construct of intelligence we have a useful base for referral.

The Christian Bible tells us to have faith. What are we to have faith in? Is it human law; education; ideology or government? No! Is it the Holy Bible? No! Is it some human idea of God? No! Our essential need is faith in TRUTH.

Bible study should question where, through the eye of reason, it is logical to suppose that what is written is opposed to the logic of the creation. What is in doubt can be put to one side.

It is truth that is of value, not man-made preferences! We cannot use the intelligence we were born with; or make best use of life; or be a true Christians, without wanting to know truth better.

Chapter 9:

The Gospel of John dispute

In 2005 TV mentioned a dispute as to who actually wrote the "Gospel according to John"! A matter now under increased academic discussion because of a papyrus discovered a few years ago in Egypt.

That there should be dispute about such things is not unusual or unimportant. What is unusual is that a challenge was made that the original writer was Mary Magdalene. If this seems to open a door for knockers the truth will withstand their puny efforts.

Like the myth that apes came down from the trees to walk on open plains long before forested areas of Africa died out (follow up later) we now find evidence and logic in challenge of creation myths and emotions.

The behavior of the apostles (Biblical record) makes clear that these were not free of childish pride or prejudice. Later authorities, compiling the New Testament from memories and writings, have weaker inspiration for truth and gain more comfort from changes to defend their desires and prejudices.

Advised to see with the "eye of reason" we have no excuse for ignoring our intelligence or for accepting the Testaments, in their entirety, as the Word of God. The case made by Ramon K. Jusino is reasonable. See: <http://www.BelovedDisciple.org> for the complete article.

Was Mary Magdalene: Author of the Fourth Gospel? by Ramon K. Jusino, M.A. © 1998.

INTRODUCTION

"This article makes a case for ascribing authorship of the Fourth Gospel (the Gospel of John) in the New Testament to Mary Magdalene. As far as I know – no previously published work has made an argument in support of this hypothesis. Most biblical scholars today assert that the Fourth Gospel was authored by an anonymous follower of Jesus referred to within the Gospel text as the Beloved Disciple. It is posited here that, in an earlier tradition of the Fourth Gospel's community, the now "anonymous" Beloved Disciple was known to be Mary Magdalene. It is further *posited that Mary Magdalene is the true founder and hero of what has come to be known as the Johannine Community (i.e., Mary Magdalene was one of the original apostolic founders and leaders of the early Christian church)".

[Note: As we saw earlier: (quotes from official documents from the times of the crucifixion) a woman called Joanna accompanied Mary Magdalene to the tomb for the purpose of embalming the body of Jesus. Women were not irrelevant among the disciples. Did these two: Mary Magdalene and Joanna lead the Johannine Community? Who is the "Beloved Disciple". Ed.] Quote continues:

"I realize that this hypothesis may seem very radical and perhaps unorthodox to you. However, I believe that it is well-founded and I respectfully offer the following in support of it. The evidence supporting this thesis includes some of the Gnostic Christian writings of the Nag Hammadi Library, and internal evidence from the text of the Fourth Gospel itself. This study also relies heavily on the Johannine Community research done by Raymond E. Brown (America's foremost Catholic biblical scholar)." End Quotes.

Editor: The rationale of Jusino's proposal appeals to me as it throws light on the man-serving role of women apparent in Christian religion; those times were male dominated. That men and women are not equal in all ways is of course obvious to rational view, but it should also be obvious that both, equally, have special duties and cultural responsibilities. In the end it was women rather than men who stood by the cross.

As said (and in honest culture reasonable) the hand that rocks the cradle rules the world! Men administer this world. The church has never, it seems to me, given women their rightful place in the moral and intellectual life of the church. Now, cultural backlash, pushed by Hegelian Dialectic promoting of Humanism's biased teachings, has resulted in many women demanding responsibilities not theirs and still apart from their natural moral responsibilities.

Understanding and promotion of human moral development is everyone's business, but is, most specifically, women's business. So it would be surprising if Jesus had not chosen a woman among his leading disciples. For this reason I would like to suggest that before Christians jump to the defense of tradition; you read, with open mind, the full, Ramon Jusino essay. As a matter of interest my favorite of the Gospels happens to be that which is now called The Gospel of John.

Sacrifice for today.

Humans now inhabit a criminal culture: a culture that is deliberately destructive of human values, morals and ideals. Until we accept a moral base for our culture it will be increasingly corrupt! Some claim to be saved because of their faith but the test of faith is how you serve: see Matthew 26-28.

Few see the real consequences of corrupt belief but creation belief is the base for philosophy/ideology, and morality: it is the base for cultural health. This infuriates those who want us to believe that there is no truth and more so those who want to be free of all moral responsibilities. To expose false belief is more important than curing cancer, heart problems or wars because false moral beliefs or false foundations for moral beliefs are the main cause of our rapidly growing problems.

The false beliefs now imposed on us play a big part in the creation of our problems and only the adoption of true beliefs will cure these problems. To create a better world we have to remove the cause of today's problems. False creation beliefs and, in consequence, false moral values have disastrous human consequences.

Chapter 10

Creation force revealed by modern science!

When life first appeared on earth life, as know today, could not survive.

Special life-forms were needed to prepare our world for human development.

All creature life is based on one system!

The force that created "our life" needed to also create an earth development to allow the human form to achieve its purpose.

As example: To begin there was no coal, gas or oil and the earth was too polluted for comfortable human development! Special life-forms cleared the atmosphere of the surplus carbon and produced our needed energy resources.

That clean-up also allowed the earth to cool and ice to form at the poles as was needed to start-up heat exchange ocean currents that made the greater part of earth habitable to humans. A remarkable achievement!

No doubt there were other such needs met by living things in past ages of earth to allow human-life development. Our needs could not be met without the early creation and programmed activity of specialized life.

To say that we are the descendents of apes is no less silly than saying we are descended from donkeys; to create animal life is the hard part, shape a mere detail! All complex systems decay and depart: the more complex human appeared recently; the specialized-decadent ape is running out of genetic reserves for adaptation, we cannot be related.

Life is by design; i.e. trees and apes were designed to serve human development. We, be assured, are part of a plan based on a genetic structure of such flexibility as to be able to carry the design of all life needed for the life enterprise. This enterprise provided the needs for a form of life that itself, in development, will have the intellectual ability for its own further advance.

The human creation could be likened to the creation of an egg! It ensured that the food and environment needed for its survival after hatching would be present when it hatched. Yes, elegant is the word to describe this design program.

That is a logical (scientific) understanding. But our Creator told us thousands of years ago, the WORD: the idea: the plan: came first and yet we, only now, are beginning to see that complex creations HAVE to be planned ahead.

Humanity is now at 'hatching' stage of intelligence. Laws of nature do not offer foresight; life-forms cannot happen by chance. So why, now that we have the science to see it, are we so stiff necked in accepting it?

Well we are in a development program; development requires that there be problems to challenge and promote growth of intellect. As a community we need time for intellectual development. Creation is not done by magic. Creation, be it a universe or a bridge has to be in accord with the law of order: So also, the creation of intelligence.

We have a brain of complexity to develop intelligence. Its need could not be seen by chance. This brain, so far as science knows, was only designed once and then given to a family of mammals who carried it for millions of years before we, the ONLY life-form with the physical ability to develop its potentials, appeared. We had to wait in embryo until the earth was ready for us.

In other words the creation of this earth and its life had to be planned by an intelligence that was virtually timeless in itself. Life had to be intelligently planned because no complex creation can occur by nature of chance. Creation cannot occur without conceptualization of needs in advance.

The difference, genetically, between animal life-forms is small; this similarity is not exclusive to apes and man, as deceivers have led us to believe. Also the big leap, to the specialized brain came with the dolphin not with the decadent ape.

Science now accepts that important basic features of life-forms (such as head, tail, eyes, limbs) are, as intelligence requires, inherent to original design. So we see that the unsolved needs of genetic creation and massive time needs for chance theory to create a wide range of life-forms is both un-needed and impossible; the greater part of genetic design is duplicated and variable – male to female is largely hormonal.

As environment changes, life-forms emerge from basic stock then specialize to serve their purpose; they use up their genetic reserves (environmental time niche) – lose genetic adaptability and become extinct – any student interested to make independent reading of the literature will see that this is what the scientific evidence supports.

For chance and natural selection to foresee coming environmental needs is impossible! Chance and natural selection are both totally blind to future and one is destructive of order and neither exists before creation exists! They themselves are products of creation. If chance damage should ever produce a new gene it would be useless; chance destroys unused genes so it would, by chance, be destroyed long before it could become part of any new life-form.

The most dangerous virus in the world today is the ideas virus called “Theory of Evolution”, it created a need for teaching that there is no truth. This theory is a “Weapon of Mass Human Destruction” designed to deform our thinking and allow destruction of our reasoning ability.

Note: The truth of what we are and what is being done to mislead us is what all humans need to know; we need develop to allow us to make best use of the life we were given.

Further Human Development.

Readers, by now, should see that humanity is in development. Our entire history; the "Holy Bible"; the coming of Jesus; the “New Testament” and the “Revelation of John”, all make it clear that we are in process of development.

Also factual incidents of humans raised by animals show that we, unlike common animals, are not born human; we are born with human potential.

Humanity is a learning development. Even our titles: mankind = a kind of man: human = the development of a new (kind of) man, these are among clues for those using the eye of reason.

An intelligence setting up a human development program will first set up the conditions and situations for this development. The non-livable had to be made livable; challenge was needed for the intellectual development. The human kind needed provision for both survival and development of intellect when the earth had reached a level of stability for this. We appeared when the time was right. There is no mystery, no room for miracles or chance creation.

We are in a planned program. If it were developed by our own intelligence what is happening would be the logical way of it. Intelligence is the same everywhere! There are different intellectual abilities but that is no different to saying water is the same everywhere; you can have different amounts but all work the same way.

A look at mankind's history and natural aids to developing talents of mind, language, community, etc. all show “humanity” to be in creative development. We develop in the only realistic image of our creator.

Why would we develop language more complicated than animal need had we not a designed potential? What would the need of sacrifice by Jesus? Why does love mean sacrifice? Why do animals, or tribes without guidance, stagnate and become extinct?

But we are passing this adolescence. We will emerge to accept our responsibility! Outgrow fake emotion. We will develop our ability for logical evaluation of evidence and accept yearning for the truth! We don't need more evidence to see that the “theory of chance creation” is fraud!

Humanist philosophy was designed for a system of “worship effective but imperfect for the profane”. The argument is not about science! Complex order needs intelligence.

We don't have “infinite” time. The earth has an age and this age is divided into time unsuited to life and a variety of times suited to various forms of life. The life created has to suit the level of earth's development and many more life-forms have, by changing environment and chance genetic destruction, been eliminated than now live.

Creation cannot happen by chance. In this creation we are now sufficiently developed and have sufficiently developed intellect, ideals and science so that, when we use our intellect honestly, we will sacrifice the false for the truth and step to maturity from adolescence. The challenge will be met!

Those who believe chance creation, insult humanity; love notoriety and publicity; gain public positions; stand for parliaments; accept bribes; ignore corruption and legislate that children be slaves of the State.

False creation belief is designed to support false ideology, create artificial emotional values, deform truth and undermines human development.

“You can’t change human nature.”

Well, we may not change our nature but, more important, we can understand and develop it! Let’s filter out the poisons now sickening human culture. We have a choice

How often we claim “human rights”? How seldom human responsibilities or duties! So much we want – so shy to pay!

We demand Big-Brother love and care for us ‘Peter Pan’ adolescents; but let them use us for their own benefit. Globalism lives on the adolescent gullibility it has created. Our own strength is used against us! Blaming others for our troubles belittles us.

We are not born with rights we are born with responsibilities! We are also born with abilities that allow us to comfortably accept our responsibilities. When we are prepared to use our intelligence we are no longer the playthings of fate. To earn human rights when we acknowledge our inheritance.

Later Developments

Where did we come from;
how did we get here?

You may think the following has no place in a serious book but, unlike chance evolution, this has realistic claim.

In June ‘03 a new African find announced three modern-kind human skulls 160,000 years old. We also find a South African Internet site that offers a new “to blinkered science” theory to explain the upright stance that, so we are taught, began the evolution of man.

“If the proponents of a revolutionary theory of human origins are correct, our ancestors abandoned the trees not for the Savannah, but for the water – and humans share more physical traits with dolphins than with apes.

“This means that the story of how our ancestors developed the characteristics that distinguish us from the apes will have to change.

“At the recent Dual 98 Congress on Palaeontology and Human Biology ... Elaine Morgan. ... For the past 27 years she has been promoting an alternative hypothesis on human origins which was put forward by scientist Alistair Hardy in 1960. Hardy noticed that humans share certain physiological attributes with aquatic mammals. ...

“Hardy was advised by his academic mentors not to pursue the subject for fear of damaging his career. [as] In the savannah hypothesis palaeontology already had a “good enough” story to explain bimetallism.

So again we see how truth is suppressed and why some theories or new research get no publicity. Globalism protects its “good enough” lies and ‘plausible’ explanations by taking advantage of our ‘scientific’ reluctance to admit error. There is evidence to show the savanna, in fact, did not appear until long after it was assumed to have caused ape-man to stand erect!

Will discovery of ancient (modern-form) skulls be ignored or discredited? Only those making the discovery and doing the tests may ever know the truth of it. Theories on our closer relationship with aquatic mammals make valid points but public mass media does not question our indoctrination to belief in plausible lies.

How do dolphins fit in?

Let’s not go into details of the skulls discovery here, look that up on the Internet. Chance evolution is a fake so why is this ‘aquatic’ theory of interest to us?

It is of interest because this evidence offers an explanation of how the design for the human brain was carried through the ages to a time when the earth was ready to support human development. This special design brain had to be kept apart from creatures with 'human like' manipulative abilities.

If evolution answered the creation problems a better brain would advantage all animals, all would progress and the intellectual brain, the most complex brain design of creation, would be common rather than exclusive. But, since the first fish swam or the first worm turned no creature has had more than its programmed need.

All, that is, excepting two; ourselves and those strange friends: the only wild animals to befriend humans by their own choice despite what humans may do to them. Why do the only two who share this super-brain appear to like each other though apparently a world apart in every other way?

Does the dolphin have a memory of our birth – a memory of babies with arms and legs instead of fins – creatures that left the oceans to challenge the dominance of land animals with no more than a big brain to defend vulnerable bodies?

Comparative average brain-weight: Chimps 0.75 lbs.: Dolphin 3.5 lbs.: Human 3.00 lbs. The dolphin brain is heavier than the human because of the observed fact that the part of brain that operates heavier bodies is heavier, but the intellectual brain formation is similar. Apes have never had this brain! It is not in the fossil record! They cannot be of our line!

<http://home.snafu.de/ulisses/tursiops.htm#top>

Quote:

"Think about it. The human brain has existed in its complexity for a hundred thousand years [They now say 160 thousand. Ed.] The dolphins have had theirs for 10 million years. No, it is not the dolphins – it is WE who have finally reached Primate status! All these facts tell us that dolphins have a big brain and excellent cognitive abilities. Stories, as well as scientific experiments, give us this knowledge." ...

"Why are humans so fascinated by these mysterious creatures? The earliest signs of contact between humans and dolphins are the drawings in Stone Age caves in Norway and in South Africa. Romans, Polynesians and Americans write about the mysterious rescue of victims of ship accidents.

"The ancient Greek culture was also very interested in dolphins; poets described these marine mammals as smooth and gentle creatures. Aristotle studied dolphins because he was a biologist as well as a philosopher, and he thought that dolphins were interested in getting closer to humans.

"An Australian tribe included the following in their version of the creation of the earth: " ... (the dolphins) never forgot that all these "two-legged" humans on land are their cousins. And that's why nowadays the dolphins come to find their human relatives, to play with them as they did in the days of the dreamtime."

You see the point? The dolphin/mankind stories of friendships are wide-ranging and endless, they extend into mythology and we too love the water. Here we see significant evidence, a once only development attached to a mammal form that is also the only logical carrier of the human genome. Only Dolphins could have carried our genes, including that once only designed brain, for over 10 million years until the earth was ready to support the human adventure.

Why should dolphins be chosen to carry us through time?

A/ because the oceans are our most stable environment.

B/ because, without hands and surrounded by water dolphins could not construct a storehouse to accumulate knowledge and therefore could not exploit this brain to their own destruction.

When earth was ready for the human development this triggered our genetic birth; we stood upright in the water and only dolphins share the mental capacity of our brains to remember. Do they love us as only ancestors can because they were our surrogate parents?

Evolutionists claim we are related to apes because they think we look like apes. How pathetic: how simplistic! Such simplistic theories are OK for primitive man but childish for modern man.

Different or similar, physical forms are (relatively speaking) such simple genetic rearrangements that physical shape is irrelevant to family origin, we could not get our brain (the most difficult challenge of creation) from ape genes, they have never had it! But the dolphin, a sea mammal had it and also, according to science, this creature had a land-based pre-history!

Will technology finally allow us to break the language barrier between dolphins and us? When honest research and reporting puts the same effort into knowing dolphins as wasted on maintaining the false connection between man and apes, then one breakthrough may well uncover far more of our past than has been uncovered by a hundred years of misdirected effort.

From Greek History

From Oppian, (approx. 200 BC) a Greek historian.

So Dolphins teem, whom subject, Fish revere And show the smiling Seas their Infant-Heir All other Kinds, whom Parent-Seas confine, Dolphins excel, that Race is all Divine, Dolphins were men (Tradition holds the tale)

Laborious swains bred on the Tuscan Vale; Transformed by Bacchus, and by Neptune loved, They all the pleasures of the deep improved.

When new made fish the God's command obeyed, Plunged in the Waves and untried Fins displayed, No further charge relenting Bacchus wrought, Nor have the dolphins all the men forgot, The conscious Soul remains her former thought.

The above is ancient; we are fortunate that the thread of thought remains visible. Science also says that Dolphins were once land based but how could Oppian know! Did he communicate with Dolphins to learn of their transformation?

Australian aboriginal mythology says these later bore the infant human? Neither Oppian nor Aboriginal could have direct knowledge of either. Mythology we know so often has a factual base, but no human mythology can link to actual events that happened before we existed.

Our Creator tells of the human creation but says nothing of its means of transmission to earth life or its maintenance on earth until earth was ready for our occupation.

Jesus advises that we take note of the old as well as the new!

Let's now look at what we need to know of "Revelation" and ancient writings. We will see who it is that is really carrying the little scroll and the sweet tasting story it told.

Of Truth

Part 2

Chapter 12.

Ancient Writings Revisited:

Information from Revelation and The Book of Enoch also other ancient writings that support and reveal evidence of vision and knowledge beyond their times.

Relating to Revelation 10: 1-11

I use the "New English Bible" authorized by a combination of eleven denominations and Christian organizations. Even this, as we will see, can take on itself to bow to cultural ideology. But, as they say in their introduction, "We have conceived our task to be that of understanding the original as precisely as we could (using all available aids), and then saying again in our own native idiom what we believe the author was trying to say in his."

The "New English Bible" translation takes advantage of 'modern' scholarship in the years immediately before Humanist corruption made this research dubious, it is probably our best available translation.

As we relate to the old for witness I call on the original Old Testament in association with Revelation and offer quotes from some of the lesser known documents to reveal witness and authority to our Christian Testament:

Revelation 10:1-11.

"Then I saw another mighty angel coming down from heaven. He was wrapped in a cloud, with the rainbow around his head; his face shone like the sun and his legs were like pillars of fire. In his hand he held a little scroll unrolled."

I interpret this to represent the 'anti-Christ' Archangel. This personage is shown in ancient writings as similar to Jesus in power and reflected in the Cain and Abel story.

This mighty angel is, by some, thought to be Jesus. But is better interpreted as the leader of the "Watchers": angels sent to earth to watch over the human development and in the Book of Enoch called Semihazah. Semihazah saw his commission as an opportunity to rebel against God and set up his own kingdom. Called Seth in Egyptian, this is Satan to us; some of the angels of Satan are known in today's Bible but their history has been hidden. Q:

"Then he gave a great shout, like the roar of a lion; and when he shouted the seven thunders spoke. I was about to write down what the seven thunders had said; but I heard a voice from heaven saying, 'Seal up what the seven thunders have said; do not write it down.'"

The "seven thunders": voices in authority during pre-flood times to re-appear in our times. They are linked to this cloud wrapped Angel because when he shouted they responded. The order not to record what is said means that what they reveal is to be, for a time, hidden.

This clearly foretold of the Old Testament revision in the early half of the 1st., Christian millennium when parts of the original Hebrew Old Testament, including much of the “Book of Enoch” were deleted from our Old Testament. This revision also ignored Old Testament-like fragments, as found in the “Egyptian Book of the Dead” and the “Gilgamesh Epic”.

Old Testament revision was needed so as to allow time to “weed out” the consequences of the evil introduced by the Watchers. Jesus describes it in the parable of the ‘darnel’ sown among the grain; here the darnel was allowed to grow until the harvest when it could, with safety to the good grain, be destroyed. This revision gave Western Europe and much of the world its present Old Testament. A veil over the corruption of the “earth-human project” allowed repair.

Q. “Then the angel that I saw standing on the sea and the land raised his right hand to heaven and swore by him who lives for ever and ever, who created heaven and earth and the sea and everything in them: ‘There shall be no more delay; but when the time comes for the seventh angel to sound his trumpet, the hidden purpose of God shall have been fulfilled, as he promised to his servants the prophets.’”

Jesus tells us we should not ‘swear by’ anything “our word” is all that is needed of honest people. The wrapped (bound) Satan is made to announce his own limited time. As these things can now be revealed we may assume it is near time for the “Seventh Angel” to sound his trumpet.

Q. “Then the voice which I heard from heaven was speaking to me again, and it said; ‘Go and take the open scroll in the hand of the angel that stands on the sea and the land.’ So I went to the angel and asked him to give me the little scroll. He said to me, ‘Take it, and eat it. It will turn your stomach sour, though in your mouth it will taste sweet as honey.’ So I took the little scroll from the angel’s hand and ate it, and in my mouth it did taste sweet as honey; but when I swallowed it my stomach turned sour.”

That this little scroll is ‘carried open and without respect’ is repeated. This scroll represents the “humanism” that has made humanity sick today. It cannot be confused with that important scroll, The Book of Life, that was secured with seven seals and written on both sides: a scroll of length and held in reverence because it told of the plan for human development, a message of importance, not something to make us sick.

Genuine vision cannot confuse these two scrolls as being one and the same. Nor can the mighty cloud wrapped angel who stands over the sea (of mankind) and the land (soul of earth life) be Jesus. Jesus is, in this revelation, called the “Lamb”. Let us not be so confused as to see Him as this arrogant personality?

The Great Angel of Revelation 10:1 is Satan.

Let’s look a little deeper to confirm this. The first clue is the word “wrapped”. Wrapped indicates restraint or subject to other authority. E.g. babies may be wrapped in shawl or blanket; prisoners may be wrapped in chains or, non-physically, wrapped in restraints. Wrapping may disguise or cover a present or a wound but does not mean self-chosen dress. If this were Jesus the description could be “coming on, in, or among clouds”. He might “wear” or even (were it written today) be “dressed” in a “wrap” but to be “wrapped” is demeaning.

Where scripture speaks of Jesus we expect hint of special status, not restraint.

For example: we see at Revelation 12:1 a woman “robed” with the sun, not “wrapped”, and she wears a crown of authority. At 14:14 we see on a white cloud someone like “a son of man”, on his head he wears a gold crown.

If I were told that this represented Jesus I would be interested to know more as we are told an angel came from the temple to tell this crowned person that his crop was ripe to harvest. Jesus is royal and awaiting his inheritance; the imagery is legitimate. So:

a: If the “cloud wrapped” angel were Jesus, He would be senior in the scene not part of a scene manipulated by some disembodied voice that directs John on what to do.

b: Jesus would not swear an oath because he rightly instructs us otherwise.

c: Jesus would not present himself, or be presented as an arrogant, flashy, stand-over person aggressively standing on sea and land which are else-ware identifies as representing people..

The identities of Devil, earth, sea are confirmed at Revelation; 12:12: Q. “woe to you, earth, and sea, for the Devil has come down to you in great fury, knowing that his time is short.”

At 17:15 we see: “The ocean you saw, where the “Great Whore” sat, is an ocean of peoples and populations, nations and languages.”

The “Great Whore”, bedecked in jewels, is the great whore of finance and commerce and confirmed as incorporating seven leading agencies today. It is she who became rich by seduction and usury and promotion of false and immoral values.

This relates to an international empire based on slavery by seduction and usury. A whore who became rich by immoral values and seduction of the ocean of peoples, nations, languages and populations.

We now experience how we, the “ocean of peoples, languages and populations” are being misled and robbed.

Quotes from Book of Enoch:

Archeology shows ancient Hebrew scribes to be more reliable than might be expected and the original Book of Enoch is our most revealing book of antediluvian times.

Fortunately we have at least part of these writings translated from the re-discovered Dead Sea Scrolls as a help to authenticity. The following three translations will be referred to: The books of Enoch (Dead Sea Scrolls: a translation of surviving fragments) by J. T. Milik. Enoch (Ethiopic M/S) by R. Laurence. The Book of Enoch (Ethiopic) by R. H. Charles. Author’s initials at beginning of quote indicates translator.

The situation we find is of raw exploitation and opportunistic selfishness such, we are told, as will not be seen again until the (now happening) end times. If exposed to the world this Watcher corruption would have deformed the program of human development so, for a time, it was hidden (premature knowledge can be a dangerous thing). It is significant that after being closed for the best part of two thousand years it is now allowed to a more advanced human “earth”.

JTM page 142: “not for this generation but for a far off generation shall I speak”. We are now part of that “far off generation”.

Page 12: “Enoch spent ... 300 years walking with God, ... and then he came back on to the earth amongst the sons of men and he witnessed against all of them ... and also against the Watchers.”

Watcher identity is important. We get a clue when the Watchers ask Enoch to intercede with God on their behalf. Enoch returns to them with the following message:

R. L. page 20: “You ought to pray for men not men for you ... You being spiritual, holy and possessing a life that is eternal, have polluted yourselves ... have begotten in carnal blood; have lusted in the blood of men and have done as those who are flesh and blood do. These [bodies] however die and perish.”

P 22: “Say, [to the watchers] In heaven have you been; secret things, however, have not been manifest to you; yet have you known a reprobated mystery, and this you have related to women ... by that mystery have women and mankind multiplied evil upon earth ... Never therefore shall you obtain peace.”

The Watchers overseeing the developing earth/soul of humanity were not possessed of all knowledge. They committed the unpardonable crime of submitting to animal lusts, mating with earth people, and establishing themselves as lords of earth. The leader is Semihazah (Satan); they abuse their moral trust and reveal inappropriate information to early humanity.

Superior to ‘Watchers’ are four angels not on earth named Michael, Sariel, Raphael and Gabriel. Six are given in the Ethiopic version. Enough of the Book of Enoch is translated from the Dead Sea Scrolls for our need. As with all ancient writings, we find irrelevant or misleading additions. It is clear that the destruction by fire, earthquake and the “flood” left more than one group of people with part memories of pre-flood histories and now provide alternative witness.

AN interesting quote relates to the accusation by Enoch against the watchers:

JTM: “.. and (women) are begetting children, who are not like the spiritual beings but creatures of flesh. And there shall be great wrath of God against the earth and flood ... and thereafter shall come stronger wickedness than that which will be consumed in the days of Noah and his sons. For I know the mysteries ... the holy ones have told me and showed me ... I read ... and saw written in them that generation after generation would do evil in this wise, and evil would be more and more until there arose generations of righteousness, and evil and wickedness should come to an end, and violence should cease from off the earth.”

So evil grew with the good, we are tested until we become mature enough to reject it. Another interesting item:

JTM: “.. Hence those who suffer affliction there, being punished less in regard to their spirits, they will not be afflicted with greater damage, in the day of judgement. ...”

So those who suffer an affliction such as of biased teaching, do, by their actions, less harm to their spirits and may expect justice at the judgment!

RL page 8: “The earth deprived of her children has cried even to the gates of heaven.” [Earth: the human spirit.]

JTM page 167: “Then the earth made the accusation against the wicked concerning everything that was done on it.”

RL pages 10-11: “Thou knowest all things before they exist ... restore the earth, which the angels have corrupted; and announce life to it, that I may revive it ... All the sons of man shall not perish ...”

Here is confirmed that the “soul” or “spirit” of human development may, in Revelation, be referred to as “earth or land”; meaning the solid and everlasting in life.

Page 56: the coming of Jesus: “Others shall be made to see, that they must repent, and forsake the work of their hands; and that glory awaits them not in the presence of the lord of spirits (; yet that by his name they may be saved ... And in those days shall the Elect One sit upon his throne.”*

(* Elect One: the “Lamb”; Son of Man or Jesus, not an arrogant angel.) A parallel between the Adam, Eve and serpent mythology of the revised Old Testament and the behind scenes reality of the original report of ‘Watchers’ who seduced earth-women, is visible. Enoch also gives witness to “two days of judgment”.

The Flood here shown to be in attendance with earthquake:

RL page 78: “In those days Noah saw that the earth became inclined, and that destruction approached. Then he lifted up his feet, and went to the ends of the earth, to the dwelling of his great-grandfather Enoch. And Noah cried out in a bitter voice, ‘Hear me; hear me; hear me; three times. And he said, tell me what is transacting upon earth; for the earth labors, and is violently shaken. Surely I shall perish with it ...”

What happened to the Watchers?

The angels overseeing earth’s development knew they served evil. It is reported: Semihazah said to his angels that they must all agree and not put all blame on him if there was trouble.

When trouble arrived and the kingdoms and peoples of the Watchers were destroyed, they were devastated and very bitter; but they, being eternal, not destroyed, were confined to earth. The caretakers had set themselves up as Gods and their children were giants. These too were destroyed in the flesh, but their spirits live.

A relevant passage from the RHC.

Pages 36-37:

“And the spirits of the giants afflict, oppress, destroy, attack, do battle, and wreck destruction on the earth, and cause trouble; they take no food, but nevertheless hunger and thirst, and cause offences. And these spirits shall rise up against the children of men and against women, because they have proceeded from them ...until the day of consummation, the great judgment.

Here confirmed is the true origin of evil in our world today.

In Revelation we see the last great effort of Satan to win control of earth. He is allowed to offer the so sweet tasting little scroll that sickens humanity and misguides millions who turn to selfishness, immorality, drugs, betrayal and crime, but the cause of this behavior will be taken account of at the judgment.

“In those days they who become pregnant shall go forth, carry off their children, and forsake them. Their offspring shall slip from them, and while suckling them shall they forsake them; they shall never return to them, and never instruct their beloved.”

Now, increasingly, women become pregnant from casual sex. They ‘go forth from’ or never know, the father. Children are forsaken to child minding and nurseries where strangers instruct them in negative, non-human values, crude behavior and rebellion. This foretells the social disintegration caused by the ‘little scroll’.

Parents, worldwide, suffer these social pressures; they are unable to see them as consequences of the ‘artificial loves’, ‘ideals’ and ‘beliefs’ of the anti-Christ humanism promoted by Globalism. Destruction by flood, fire and earthquake destroyed the ‘watchers’ power but the seed grows in our culture until our time of maturity when it is gathered and burned at time of harvest.

Of Truth

Part 2.

Chapter 13.

The Egyptian “Book of the Dead” & “Gilgamesh Epic”

All ancient writings suffer deformity; additions caused by human bias and language translations.

Languages don’t always have words of exact meaning and translators have cultural biases.

For example: in the New English Bible (Old Testament) we find an original statement that God created both good and evil is modified to; God created joy and strife. Small bias grows with time! For this reason we must always try to understand in light of the nature of the creation itself.

In particular we must practice logical assembly of ideas. A good way to begin is to set your argument out in print and then bring its points to logical order; many will find, if honest in wanting to know themselves, that they have a lot of self-contradictions to sort out. This is because we tend to think in circles and do not realize that, when we rely on “in mind” ideas, it is more difficult to hold a firm line; we tend to veer around obstacles to keep within our comfort zone.

The New Testament updates the Old. The Old, corrupted by age, human desire and outdated by human advance, needs careful use for instruction but provides elements of the Creators revelations to add weight and witness to the eternal truth and challenge to premature interpretations.

As shown, the act of creation exists within its laws! When the Creator decides to create universal order the Creator then accepts the laws that bind that order. Ref: Matthew 5:18 “I tell you this: so long as heaven and earth endure, not a letter, not a stroke, will disappear from the Law until all that must happen has happened.”

Some things must be hidden from the intellectually developing human for similar reasons that children should not be exposed to knowledge of sex before they have the maturity to deal with it as part of their natural physical and intellectual growth.

Children believe ‘fairy’ stories and all manner of intellectual distortion. This has its place but when they naturally begin to understand realities they should not be encouraged to evade them. Confusion corrupts logic and leads to escape into drugs or entertainments. The Jig-Saw pieces of life have to fit the reality of truth to fit correctly. Intellectual maturity does not need drama, lies, drugs or “miracles”.

The Egyptian Book of the Dead

Also supports the Christian Testament with insight relevant today. While angels are often messengers to earth people it is now clear that they can be far less than Gods and more than messengers. The heavenly host includes beings at many levels. It is now clear that all angels are not perfect and ego that may tempt them to evil. As Jesus tells us: only God is truly good.

The Egyptian Book of the Dead, compared to The Book of Enoch, has few authoritative statements and has much more added by years of irrelevant emotional inclusions, such as tomb inscriptions and praise of deities created by human imagination.

Quotes from, The Egyptian Book of the Dead! Translations by T.G Allen, and by E.A. Budge.

Early Egyptians also knew of the universal God who created all things: TGA page 154: “I am Atum, who made the sky, who created what exists, who begat the gods; great God who came into being of himself.” Page 89: “They are the drops of blood that dropped from the phallus of Re when he set about cutting himself. Then they became gods ... They are Authority and Perception, who are in the train of their Father Atum daily.”

Here we see that the Creator had to perform an act of self-mutilation. The creation of humanity meant sharing of His intellectual self (Authority and Perception). This is significant for in our science we have not, so far as I know, analyzed intelligence to see its main components.

Life and creation, by their order, create “authority” (laws or principles) and “perception” (vision to see logical relationships) and understanding of complexities. Such insight is not part of public education today and I doubt present intellect understands itself to this extent.

Is our science today better able to express our privileged access to these abilities? Do we recognize that intelligence itself is a rare gift available only from our Creator?

In Egyptian our God is called Atum and the personification of Atum is Re. Our New Testament tells us: “When all things began, the Word already was. The word dwelt with God and what God was the Word was.” So does Re, in Egyptian, represent the ‘Word’.

Page 157: “My head [design] is Re, and the total (of me) is Atum.”

Page 160: I am Re, who came forth from the deep. (The God) is my Soul. I came into being of myself together with the deep and sky and earth in this my name ... I am Atum, who came forth from the deep. His Soul goes forth in this sky ... to this earth .. ‘Dying is my abomination; I enter not into the execution place of the Nether World.’

Of interest: Seth = Semihazah = Satan. Each culture has its own language. In Egyptian, Horus fought with Seth and defeated him. In the battle Horus receives a damaged eye while Horus snatches off the testicles of Seth. The damage to the eye of Horus represents damage done by the mischief of the Watchers to the vision for earth's human development while the damage to Seth represents deletion of his liberty to procreate greater harm. This battle, to be meaningful in its day, is described as physical but, as the contestants are immortal, it is spiritual.

This symbolizes the battle between good and evil. As witnessed with the "Book of Enoch" the rebellious angels were confined to earth. Egyptian and Sumerian writings illustrate events up to the destruction but not later, they how quickly human desires reconstruct gods to their own liking.

We can now see that a number of groups escaped the destruction by flood, fire and earthquake; described by our "revised" Old Testament as flood only. Old writings reveal a larger picture but that only the Hebrew Testament, after the flood confirms these as the chosen people.

The Gilgamesh Epic and Ancient Writings from India:

These also bare witness to a catastrophic event and confirm that groups escaped the destruction of the Watchers Empire.

There are many cultural memories but two more quotes should suffice to confirm a real connection between ancient events and our present understanding.

The Sumerians are said to have been a dark-haired, non-Semitic people, but have folk memory of ark and flood similar to that of the Hebrew. We are told of a man warned by God to build an ark and in this instance the advice included the saving of crafts people as well as animals. This is reflected in crafts abilities of early Sumerians who built a city while early Hebrews were wandering herdsmen.

The Gilgamesh Epic seems no more than a novel though the leading character has serious connections and some descriptions relate too closely to Testament fragments to be ignored. Our reference is "The Gilgamesh Epic and Old Testament Parallels" by Alexander Heidel.

Gilgamesh was offspring of the Watchers (though 'Watchers' is not in the Sumerian translation). His personality fits the description of a strong, brash, giant living an earthy life. His delight was to take each maiden of the city on her wedding night.

Knowledge of the past is useful when we want to understand the present.

Page 85 tells us of the last days of the Sumerian homeland:

"The Anunnaki (the judges of the underworld) raised torches;

Lighting up the land with their brightness;

The raging of Adad reached into heaven

Turned into darkness all that was light.

The land he broke like a pot

The gods were terror stricken at the deluge.

They fled (and) ascended to the heaven of Anu;

The gods cowered like dogs (and) crouched in distress.

Ishtar cried out like a woman in travail;

The lovely voiced lady of the gods lamented: In truth, the olden times has turned to clay,

Because I commanded evil in the assembly of the gods!

How could I command (such) evil in the assembly of the gods;

(How) could I command war to destroy my people, it is I who bring forth (these) my people!

Like the spawn of fish they (now) fill the sea!

The Anunnaki-gods wept with her;

The gods sat bowed (and) weeping.

The wind blew, the downpour, the tempest, the flood overwhelmed the land".

The raising of torches from the underworld represents volcanic action. The turning of light into darkness indicates smoke, volcanic dust and cloud cover. The land broken like a pot shows earthquake activity. Ancient writings give witness to the same event described by people of different places and languages.

A History of Indian Philosophy,

Pages 14-15, a time of re-settlement again confronts us. We are told parts of the Rig Veda may have been composed "before Aryan people entered the plains of India ... they therefore reflect the civilization ... before and after they came to India." We are told of chariots and wagons, of cattle husbandry, agriculture, water canals, wood workers and delicate carvings. Of metal workers: smiths and potters continuing their trade: there is also plating, weaving and sewing. ...

There is now acceptable evidence of the relevance of ancient knowledge, had it not been for the bias inserted by the rebel watchers this would be now scientifically evaluated and accepted.

The story of Adam and seduction of Eve reflects the general story of humanity – the story of our trial by temptation, our fall and of our rescue; this, all at the same time, being woven into progressive development of our human intellectual potential.

It is time to accept our true nature – time to acknowledge that the testaments were originally “From Almighty God”. We are not playthings of chance. We are designed by intelligence for intelligent achievement. We are offered a place in creation!

Let us apologize to the intellect that created us; wipe the slate clean; rebuild community in accord with the truth of a humanity we can now appreciate. We are on the verge of our human future, all we need is enough faith in truth to step out of past confusions and give trust to our intellectual spirit.

Our world is in a sick and dangerous state; our human cultures are full of inhumanity, fear, despair and corruption. We need to use our creative intelligence for survival. Let us take up this challenge.

Note: The Great Whore: Revelation 17-18. Represents commerce – the corrupt and usurious banking system and the beastly side of mankind – the seven hills are seven ancient powers now in secret alliance to create private world government – they are the seven thunders that answered Satan’s shout. These may be found in places of financial power today but do not be surprised if they use some disguise.

We now return to our times.

Of Truth

Part 3.

The fight for Law & Order.

Chapter 14.

In Our Times

Matthew 24:22

“If that time of troubles were not cut short, no living thing could survive...”

The Testaments still give valuable guidance but it is time for humanity to become adult – for mankind’s metamorphosis to true humanity and to make responsible use of our given intellectual ability. We now know a lot about ourselves and it is time to discriminate between the truth of our being and the corruption to which we are tempted.

If we take the Testaments without faith in truth, we have to believe the creator to be both brilliantly intelligent and extremely stupid – brutal; gentle; generous; demanding; arrogant; understanding, etc.

But that picture, of course, better reflects our own erratic behavior.

Another hint from Revelations

The Revelation of John 11: 7-11: (but read 11: 3-12) “And I have two witnesses ... dressed in sackcloth ... But when they have completed their testimony, the beast that comes up from the abyss will wage war upon them and defeat and kill them. Their corpses will lie in the streets of the great city, whose name in allegory is Sodom or Egypt, where also their Lord was crucified. For three days and a half, men from every people and tribe, every language and nation, gaze upon their corpses and refuse them burial. All men on earth gloat over them, make merry, and exchange presents; for these two prophets were a torment to the whole earth. But at the end of the three days and a half the breath of life from God came into them; and they stood up on their feet to the terror of all who saw it. Then a loud voice was heard speaking to them from heaven, which said, ‘Come up here!’ ...”

Let us not be petty about semantics; at heart I think you will recognize the two prophets as the Old and New Testaments. Now dead in the eyes of authorities overcome by worship of the bestiality of our animal bodies no one dares give them burial; they are given lip service by law, by church and by parliaments. But all devote themselves to celebration and the pleasures of the flesh in forced gaiety for these two, still torment our conscience as our spirit is shamed by our belief in chance as our creator.

The two Testaments, lying dead in the streets of the bestial city of usury (*The Great Whore) wait on human intellect devoted to truth to reveal the intelligent Creator and thereby to justify them. This justification will terrify many!

These two, when revealed as true prophets, will have completed their work. Humanity may then step out of the darkness to live in accord with its own reality. No longer will we rely on deceit for guidance but, knowing our true selves, will act in life’s harmony.

When we accept the truth we will acknowledge that the original testaments were “From Almighty God”. No doubt we will still have challenges to face – intellectual development to accomplish. Our ultimate purpose will be revealed as our eyes are opened.

A life’s Work

Quote: “Knowledge will forever govern ignorance: and a People who mean to be their own governors, must arm themselves with the power which knowledge gives.” James Madison (Former US President) 1822.

Nearing the end of a life's work I think that, to my simple limits, enough of worldly matters, culture, human development and creation have been covered.

I am not here to give sight to those too egotistic to open their eyes; or to bash into submission those who will never admit they are in error even where the cost is life; their own or their loved. I am not here to nurse maid those who think the world owes them a living nor beg the corrupt to change their ways. The quality of life, the corruption people prefer to live with, is their choice, their concern and their responsibility.

I do not know you; I cannot discriminate, but if longing for truth is within, no matter how deeply buried, it will surface. Though many may strive to maintain their mythical ways and worship their mythical ideology to the end, I am not one of the little scouts who were having so much trouble helping the old lady across the street – because she did not want to go across the street! I am not here to save you but to help those who care enough to help save themselves.

When young I sought to do independent research. However as time and experience progressed, it became obvious that I must also stand on the shoulders of others. That is where a sound foundation proved essential. One needs to know enough of truth that truth becomes recognizable to the extent that useful decisions may be made without losing sight of the need to avoid seduction.

The example of Gramsci is convenient. Quote: “The Italian Marxist thinker Antonio Gramsci, while in Fascist imprisonment, developed the concept of cultural hegemony: ‘control people’s minds, and their hearts and hands will follow’. Gramsci explained how one dominant class can establish its control over others through ideological dominance. Whereas orthodox Marxism explains social structure as shaped by economic forces, Gramsci adds the crucial cultural dimension. He showed how, once ideological authority (“or cultural hegemony”) is established, the use of covert violence to impose control can become superfluous.”

Comment by Henry C K Liu.

Finding that Gramsci had formulated this revealing ‘ideological control’ as a Marxist doctrine for easy population enslavement took years. Even now, despite all evidence, it is difficult to convince people that they are enslaved by humanist ideology and hypnotized by fear of self-responsibility.

Most still cannot see that Capitalism and Communism are two wings of the same bird each representing elitist rule by deceit, theft and trickery; that both use seduction and bribe with animal delights. We are grateful for childish rewards though it is clear that animal behavior does not advance the human cause – that as animals we have no independence and gain no development.

Gramsci did not discover an unknown: early cultures were also governed in this way. To uncover the significance of “ideological dominance” before finding Gramsci came study and the time saving insight of others. But, as exposed in other of these books, beliefs are more effectively imposed by modern technology.

If the human spirit is not dedicated to truth the caring, then progressive enlightenment does not progress to our benefit and caring, deformed to misuse, results in anti-social behavior. Whether called capitalist or socialist, populations are turned to self-destruction and it is irrelevant to the outcome that those starting a movement might have had sincerely good intentions.

War against Humanity; an age-old enslavement.

Matthew 24:8 “With all these things the birth-pangs of a new age begin.”

Let's hear other voices that may help us see where we are, where we are going and what we may do to change it.

Roman historian Livy: 59BC –17AD; quote: “The struggle between parties is and will always remain, a worse misfortune for the people than war, famine, plague or other manifestation of God’s wrath.” EQ.

The shoulders we stand on carry the wisdom of ages. But our problems began with the “Watchers” and progress was even more slyly sabotaged than the sabotage of human development seen by W. Churchill below. We now know more of the New World Order, more of social sciences, more of the potential for genetically modified diseases, more of what is at stake, and more of the lengths to which the self-centered go.

The “party System” is one of their deceits that we must not forget because ending this is among our first steps to freedom. Remember these quotes, there are many more to back them up:

“From the days of Spartacus, Wieskhopf, Karl Marx, Trotsky, Rosa Luxembourg, and Emma Goldman, this world conspiracy has been steadily growing. This conspiracy played a definite recognizable role in the tragedy of the French revolution. It has been the mainspring of every subversive movement during the 19th century. And now at last this band of extraordinary personalities from the underworld of the great cities of Europe and America have gripped the Russian people by the hair of their head and have become the undisputed masters of that enormous empire". E.Q. Comment by Winston Churchill to the London Press (1922):

Barry Cohen, news columnist and ex-Australian M.P. 4/7/1995; quote: "Only a minuscule proportion of the population are members of political parties and, as these parties are controlled by an elite, it ensures the decision as to who represents us in parliament is in the hands of very, very few."

and: "...all bar a handful of senior ministers learned quickly that if they wanted something special to occur then there were key people in the P.M's office who had to be convinced first," ...

"Some will holler that they are merely advisers putting forward a range of options from which the government may choose. That's what they should be doing but many go well beyond that." EQ.

The parties compete in the game of "serve the power" with spite and jealousy against each other; usurious elitists control both (or all) effective parties and disguise their violence with claims to defend us against problems they themselves create.

Globalism is a criminal culture but escape is our choice

Congressman Larry P. McDonald, (1976): Quote: "The drive of the Rockefellers and their allies is to create a one-world government combining supercapitalism & Communism under the same tent, all under their control.... Do I mean conspiracy? Yes I do. I am convinced there is such a plot, international in scope, generations old in planning, and incredibly evil in intent." E.Q.

Globalists do not want to prevent all good and honest people getting into parliaments; dissenting voice gives an appearance of open honesty and give important comfort to those deceived.

This is not a war of soldiers; this war is fought through entertainment, medicines, drugs and foods stripped of nutrition. It is fought in the schoolroom; the church; on the farm. It is a war of sickness, cancers, heart attacks; 'dumbing down' to ignorance and poor reading ability and propaganda by entertainment. It is a war where national standards are ignored by imports.

It is a war fought with lies, deceptions and bank-loans; with advertising, social fashions, and mass sexual seduction; with lies propaganda and gradual corruption; with trapping people in poverty and despair. It is fought with torments like fear and shame. Unlike normal war this attacker pretends friendship – and offers fun, love and wealth; seduction to poison the human spirit – the ultimate genocide.

Controls strengthen by the day! Human, national and international problems, multiply by the week. In politics, business and family moral standards and common concern disappear. The rich grow richer, as gullibility accommodates bigger lies.

Creation belief is the base for human behavior! It's our base for life's meaning, for our vision, morals, justice, and future.

We are an unfinished creation in test of fulfilling the purpose of our design. We had to see hell through the fires of temptation! We had to learn from and be strengthened by our mistakes! We needed to discover and master the conflict between the beast in our bodies and the human in our hearts!

We had human potential to develop and truth to find. Evil was essential to the appreciation of good.

The secret, criminal world government, has operated over centuries! We now live by false ideology. Globalism does plan ownership of earth – it does believe victory entitles it to eliminate the great mass of earth's residents! But its identity is not important! We need not know them to defeat them!

We do not have to elect the shallow egotists chosen by aliens. We do not have to elect candidates pushed by worship of money and power. We do not have to elect candidates who are blind to human responsibilities and love to bathe in the bliss of ignorance.

We do not have to let aliens instill values and ideals to abort the human potential of children. We do not have to bow meekly to a mass-media-glorified ideal called "freedom of speech" that is no more than a permit for liars and deceivers! We do not have to ignore that only "freedom of truth" releases our human potential and guarantees our future.

We do have the power and ability to change!
The Impossible dream is not impossible!

Of Truth
Part 3.
End Piece.
A Poetic Gift of Chastisement.

Choice

*"The time has come" (as the walrus said)
"to speak of many things":
Now man may shed his heathen ways to borrow angels wings.
In new guise he may venture forth a whole new world to see while the 'old world' he used to know it never more will be.*

*Or will he keep his manly toys, his bombs and drugs and such,
and treasure most the met-alloys and love the carbon touch.
Will innocence - sophisticate - still mock with paint its face while love lies prostrate to desire throughout this 'manly' race.*

*The choice is yours and you should know you can have as you choose,
but know that when you bet your life,
you have to win - or lose.
You cannot stay just as you are our time does pass on by and what you choose may lead to life or let it wither - die.*

A Man(kind) that will not listen

In the meaning of Creation and a Word that made it live for a Man that will not listen to the voice that's never still, there's an ever living sorrow and a sadness gaining ground.

We dedicate intelligence to scorn all common sense when explaining our Creation and see no consequence for denial of true science or the truth of providence.

*Even churches fail to spread the true message of the Christ and what our Jesus said is deformed with human hype;
our ego stands almighty as we talk to justify.*

*Our pride is our undoing
we see things as we want;
we cover up the human truth to humanism flaunt.
As falsehoods twist our nature we poison our own roots.*

*We drive the young to madness with noise (is that fate?)
and we make art out of junk scraps to reflect our mental state.
Yes, we take all good and spoil it, for our cause - sophisticate.*

When lies all plastic coated, are enforced as vital truths and the whistle-blower taunted for lack of corporate roots, then Man is really lifting, by straps tied to his boots.

*Life cannot, just continue to pile madness on insane, the virtual reality
will not itself sustain:
false theories don't build bridges and truth will come,
with pain.*

The Challenge of Principle

*Shall we then, be above the ideals we propound, or shall we look to them, also, ourselves?
Shall we be free of the principles we so graciously utter?
Or the burden we submit, shall we not bend to it?*

*If we live up to our ideals, then we have none.
But do we have them more if we ignore them.
Should they not shine for us like a guiding star never in our grasp but yet not quite beyond us?*

*And will man confuse his ideals with his principles?
Are they the same?
Are his principles not his very foundation and if he fails them is he not ashamed?*

*Does not life exist only by virtue of true principles?
And does not life die when true principles depart?
Should we not seek truth before life knowing the way to life is truth and all untruth is dead?*

I enter life an empty vessel.

*Shall I be filled with whatever my environment pours forth so abundantly?
And shall I be sealed to stand in line for the pleasures of fate?
Shall I be an empty vessel standing open by the roadway to be filled with the filth and cast-off things of the multitude?*

*Or shall I challenge the eager filler and say: "What guides you?"
And shall I avoid the multitude - slaves to the easy path - a little?
Shall I not hide from a love, which seeks to rule me and seek the truth of the burr that spikes my foot?*

*Do I know the path that fate so desperately denies me,
and the love that lies beyond the stony ground?
Do I seek truth - enchanting strange beguiling and hear the strangers voice and feel his hand?*

*Do I know them, I have a choice and I am free then to defeat those desires first placed in my mind.
Then I may go where truth, not chance, may lead me and not walk blind, controlled, my life confined.*

Oh man!

*Oh man!
You with your iron lungs and your heart transplants,
your wonder drugs and your blood transfusions.
Your technology that can create a diamond,
or take you to the moon,
or lay bare a continent.
You with your biology whereby you may glimpse your construction and destruction.
Where are you going man?
You who have learned so well how to save a life, have you learned how to live?*

*Oh man!
You turned from me to the tree.
Your world is filled with noise.
Is it singing or is it screaming?*

*Oh man!
You have taken your baby's birthright for your pleasure.
Your hearts are hard, even more so than your arteries.
The "Great Whore" of commerce, "bedecked with many jewels",
she is sick.
Her stench fills the air and the waterways,
yes, and even into the countryside.*

*Oh man!
You turned from me.
But what I did say to you, has it not proven true?
In your foolishness you claim freedom and are enslaved.
Would you have sacrificed yourself,
you would have been saved.
Would you have been as a servant you would have been served so much better.*

*Oh man!
You with your paint and beer and fancy gear.
Your false hair and false breasts.
You turned from me in the name of living,
but where is your life?*

*Oh man!
I am the way; I am truth; I am life.*

Modern Man

*Modern man is younger than he was.
Though never mature he's now less sure.
He sees life as through dark glass or mists that pass and cannot grasp a meaning.*

*He whimpers at the troubles that beset him.
Talks of pollution and ecological restitution.
Ignorant of political scheming to keep him dreaming.
He fears international finance on the boil while cities spoil and populations multiply over misused soil.*

*All uncaring he tramples flowers insensitive to the hours of their forming.
Possessions strewn about the floor
(where they're from there's plenty more).
Cast off rubbish street by street (someone's paid to keep it neat).
The cost of living soaring.*

*Fair labor now no pride or joy
a man sincere can revere.
Though he must realize even through misted eyes that home and clothes and garden hose - all things he may deduce are in some way the produce of labor.*

He finds life now - well - rather dull

*He seeks drugs to enliven.
 He now thinks sex "just real good fun"
 and beastliness is rising.
 Now reason's out and fun is in tomorrow is an oldies sin, non-violence is the thing to do (excepting those opposing you) and love just compromising.*

*Before a screen he sits for hours feeling naught of sun or showers.
 A shadow world he lives and breathes for fake sorrows, fakely grieves
 His world perceptions - shadows now and yet the fates demand - somehow that real milk come from living cow.*

*Yes man is less mature than he was.
 Reality passes.
 Life bypasses.
 Educated to serve his own desires he learns to believe he can deceive – his soul.*

Post Script

Congratulations to all seeking truth, I trust this booklet has made possible a more relaxed appreciation of the force behind our creation along with the forces creating our discomfort. May we now use life to advance more efficiently?

Who am I? Those who think the position or wealth of the person making a statement give it its value, or that the worldly authority of a speaker increases its value as truth, are misled and the misled misled. It is for you to use your given intellect to judge the truth of that which is presented.

This internet site is dedicated to a whole of life view of our world situation and what we can do to save ourselves.
